In Our HOUSE

By Arthur Mayse

The omen-freighted Ides of March whooped down upon us Wednesday, a fact which the Legislative Assembly's unthreatened Caesar was quick to note.

"I am sure," said Premier Bennett in full smile, "that no difficulty will arise."

His prediction was mostly right. Although the winds blew fresh and free inside the House as well as out, the squalls were few and brief.

Perhaps because they were to dine later as guests of premier and cabinet, members were painstakingly cooperative. This spirit was carried to a startling extreme when David Barrett (NDP—Dewdney) asked leave to introduce a bill and got a unanimous 'Aye' before he could announce its title.

(A bill to amend the Training Schools Act: British Columbia's underdogs have no better friend than this sturdy, youngish Opposition member who in private life works with the John Howard Society for the rehabilitation of ex-convicts.)

Pitch-Penny Game

So on we went like a House afire for full 20 minutes, legislators playing brisk pitch-penny with education millions, and pack-in-the-box Leo Nimsick (NDP—Cranbrook) never once popping up to harangue the government side.

Then over the horizon a squall came booming.

With the assent of members, Chairman William Speare reopened a vote passed while John Squire was absent, so that the Alberta NDP could have his say.

What Mr. Squire wanted was a change in the Public Schools Act which would permit practicing clergymen to double as teachers.

"A denial of a fundamental right," asserted Mr. Squire, and not in line with the policies of Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec.

Scant Impression

This roll call of the provinces made scant impression on our legislature. The general feeling was that church should remain separate from state, a belief in which Tony Gargrave (NDP, Mackenzie) concurred.

"I speak as an individual," said Mr. Gargrave, and speaking as an individual, proceeded to support the government stand against preacher-school teachers.

Minor division of this sort within a party isn't uncommon. Our five Liberals, for instance, are not of one mind about the government proposal to expand industry's toe-hold in our Class A or wilderness parks.

Gallant But Futile

Liberal Alan Macfarlane of Oak Bay made a gallant, but I fear futile pitch for the reintroduction of grade 12 supplemental examinations.

Sacred Dan Campbell flew into a speech which bore no apparent relation to the vote, drawing a polite snarl from Burnaby's NDP Gordon Dowding.

Legislators then voted public libraries their $10 difference between advances and revenues; banded off the million-dollar-plus department total; and double-clutched smoothly from education to labor, Mr. Peterson's other portfolio.

Then amiably off—NDP, Sacred and Liberal—to join good host Bennett in a toast to the Queen.

Drunk, I sorrowfully add, in beautiful British Columbia water.

Incidentally doesn't the Ides of March come on the 15th of the month?

BRONZE SCULPTURE by Victoria's Eliza Mayhew—or other of her works—will represent Canada at Venice biennial world exhibition of contemporary art. Weighing 1,900 pounds, it was cast in an Oregon foundry while Mrs. Mayhew was teaching at the university there. Looking over giant sculpture at Victoria Art Gallery, is Times critic Moncrieff Williamson who will write about it in Saturday's paper.

Cyprus Report Friday by Mike

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister Pearson said today he expects to make a full report to the Commons Friday on Canada's proposed role in the international peace-keeping force for Cyprus.

The prime minister said he read to cabinet this morning a report on talks between United Nations Secretary-General Thant and Canadian UN Ambassador Paul Tremblay.

Canadian defence officials said earlier everything is ready if Canada decides to contribute to the Cyprus force.

Defence Minister Hellyer met with the three chiefs of staff today. A spokesman said that so far a specific request had been received by the department.

"We expect that an advance party could be in Cyprus within 24 hours of the order," he said, explaining that requirements for specialized troops and equipment would take somewhat longer.

"Until we know the composition of the Canadian contribution, we don't know how long it will take to have the full force in Mediterranean," he added.

The provincial government intends to co-operate with private industry.

Gov't Transfers Mental Care

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

A new plan to shift mental health care from the B.C. government to community organizations was unveiled Wednesday by Health Minister Eric Martin.

Mental Costs Feared

Provincial government aid to hospital outpatient service

must be increased for localized mental health treatment, city manager Dennis Young believes.

In a statement on legislation introduced Wednesday that would place more mental health services within communities, Mr. Young dispelled some apprehension that ratepayers would be charged more in order to provide the new services.

"There is no indication that local governments are being encouraged to take on more responsibility," Mr. Young said.

40-YEAR TREND

He noted that improved medical philosophy and treatment of mental health cases in the last 40 years has stressed less institutional type care.

The controversial Ross report on mental health in B.C., tabled after much delay in 1962, recommends community treatment facilities for most mental cases, Mr. Young observed.

"It may be necessary to raise some of the funds for such expansion of facilities by public subscription, but the burden will not fall on the homeowner, he said.

The provincial government intends to co-operate with private industry.

Winds Hit 110 MPH In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—A brief but furious wind-storm flew across part of Montreal Island today, doing heavy damage and causing some minor injuries.

The winds hit 110 miles an hour, the highest ever recorded here.

Power and telephone poles and trees were down, highways were blocked, roofs and street signs were blown away and airplanes at two airports damaged.

Summer cottages by the dozen were wrecked or damaged.

TORONTO (CP)—Winds gusting to 75 miles an hour sent a factory wall crashing down on five men today in suburban Weston. Two were reported seriously injured.

TORONTO (CP)—A sudden blizzard today dumped up to 11 inches of snow in northern Ontario, closing roads and schools and plunging temperatures below zero.

RUBY QUOTED

'Intended To Shoot 3 Times'

DALLAS (AP)—A police officer today quoted Jack Ruby as saying within minutes after he shot Lee Harvey Oswald that "I intended to shoot him three times."

Officer D. R. Archer testified at a murder charge that the defendant approached Oswald—run in hand—in the basement of Dallas police headquarters Nov. 24 last. Ruby, Archer said, was muttering unintelligible phrases but did call the accused presidential assassin a "son of a bitch."

Three to five minutes later, Archer continued, when he was inside the jail with Ruby, he told the defendant: "I think you killed him."

"He said," Archer added, "I intended to shoot him three times."

Ruby, on trial for his life, is pleading temporary insanity. The defence claims Ruby was in a mental blackout when he shot Oswald and didn't know what he was doing.

DID NOT HEAR HIM

Police Officer L. C. Graves, walking alongside Oswald when Ruby shot him, said he did not hear Ruby say he hoped Oswald died.

The other officer alongside Oswald, J. E. Leavelle, testified Wednesday that Ruby said he hoped Oswald would die.

"Did you hear Leavelle say to Oswald, 'I hope someone shoots you, you son of a bitch'?" asked Melvin Belli, chief defence counsel for Ruby.

Graves said he did not.

"Did you hear him say someone shoots you, I hope they shoot as straight as you do," Belli asked.

Graves denied this too.

Belli led Graves to the point concerning which finger Ruby

Furore Mounts Over Royal Visit

MONTREAL (CP)—Voices in Quebec continue to be raised in opposition to the Queen's scheduled visit to Quebec City in October.

Guy Pouliot, leader of the Separatist Rassemblement pour l'Indépendance Nationale, told English-speaking university students in Montreal Wednesday that "the Queen could very well be the victim of aggression when she comes here."

"This is not a threat or warning, but just my opinion as a private citizen."

The Sir George Williams University students shouted at him to "speak English" and several of them threw down and trampled on a Quebec Fleur-de-Lys flag after the speech.

Later Wednesday, le Rassemblement announced it had called Queen Elizabeth that incidents during her visit would be "unfortunate but inevitable."

The Queen is scheduled to visit Charlottetown and Quebec City next October in link-part in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of consultations which led to Confederation in 1867.

The cable said the Queen's visit is being used by Ottawa "for political propaganda."

OPPOSE TRIP

"We are fighting this colonialist policy in which you are made to play a role unworthy of your rank. We beg you to believe that if we oppose your trip to Quebec, it is not that we are 'against' your person but against a Confederation which has run its course."

"We regret in advance the unfortunate but inevitable incidents which could occur during your stay, but they are inevitable because we will never admit that the founding of a colonialist regime that we do not recognize is being celebrated in the heart of our country."

"In other times, when Quebec is independent, we will be pleased to reconsider the usefulness of such a visit to Quebec and to transmit to you, if the occasion arises, the homage of our people."

On Tuesday night, Montreal journalist Yvon Turco said on the CBC television show Viewpoint that Queen Elizabeth would not be welcome in Quebec.

The statement caused one member of Parliament to protest in the Commons Wednesday.

DENOUNCES BROADCAST

Nicholas Mandziuk (PC—Marquette) denounced the broadcast for the "outrageous and disloyal utterances" he said it had contained.

He demanded that the government take immediate steps to "prevent the further wanton expression" of such views over the CBC.

The furore over the Queen's visit was started by Laval University students. Then in Toronto Feb. 24 Marcel Chaput, leader of the defunct Quebec Republican Party, a separatist group, said some Quebecers are ready to let the Queen know

'UP TO OTTAWA'

Palace Keeps Mum On Threats

LONDON (AP)—There seems no indication that Queen Elizabeth will cancel her scheduled visit next fall to Canada because of opposition of Quebec separatists.

Buckingham Palace declined any comment today on the latest statement by le Rassemblement pour l'Indépendance Nationale in Montreal that the Queen's visit could create unfortunate incidents. The palace declined to discuss whether it had received a cable from the Quebec group.

The attitude, it is understood, taken by the palace is that the Queen is to be the guest of the Canadian government—she is the Queen of Canada, as well as Britain—and that if Canada feels she should not visit there the government will so inform her.

She is to take part in the ceremonies in Quebec City and Charlottetown commemorating the 100th anniversary of consultations that led to Confederation in 1867.

Jobless Make Plea

FORT ST. Among the unemployed signing the telegram is Labor Minister Peterson, Prime Minister Pearson and several MLAs, was dismissed social worker Wallace du Temple.

Peace Move by U.S. 'Opens Up' Reactor

GENEVA (AP)—The United States announced today it will place one of its largest nuclear power reactors under international inspection in the hope that other countries—particularly the Soviet Union—will follow suit.

U.S. delegate Adrian S. Fisher told the 17-nation disarmament conference the reactor plant at Rowe, Mass., is to be placed under inspection of the International Atomic Energy Agency.

Fisher said the United States hopes this step will encourage the Soviet Union and other countries to join in a world-wide system to prevent the misuse of civil reactors for clandestine production of nuclear weapons.

Fisher stressed the IAEA will be invited to undertake the permanent inspection of the reactor "whether or not other states reciprocate." But if they do reciprocate, he added, it would be "one of the most significant developments of this conference."

Fisher said three smaller American reactors, two at Brookhaven, N.Y., and one at Piqua, Ohio, are already under IAEA inspection to help the agency develop its procedure for safeguarding the peaceful uses of atomic energy.

The privately owned reactor at Rowe is the largest to come under IAEA surveillance. It is rated at a power level of 600,000 thermal kilowatts.

STUDENTS FASTING FOR FUNDS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Seven University of B.C. students today entered the fourth day of a publicity fast aimed at raising $1,100 to help build a school at Piliwe in the British African protectorate of Bechuanaland.

Bechuanaland is a small country between Southern Rhodesia and South Africa.

The seven, led by Bruce Grey, a fourth-year arts student, said they are tired, irritable, physically weak but not hungry. They are eating only vitamin pills.

Another aim of the fast is to draw attention to the plight of starving millions in underdeveloped countries and to raise funds for the school building project sponsored by the student's council.

Their fast ends Saturday.

MIAMI, Fla.—There's no doubt, allergists agree, that husbands and wives can be allergic to each other.

But sometimes the symptoms—a rash, sneezing, irritability—denote another problem: They just can't stand each other.

A group of doctors, all of whom preferred anonymity, discussed this touchy subject at the annual convention of the American College of Allergists.

About 1,000 of the specialists are here for the three days of meetings.

One physician said there were five authenticated cases of allergies developed between man and wife. "Dandruff was the villain in each case."

Another recalled a couple on the brink of divorce because everytime they kissed the husband's eyes would water, his nose would itch and he would become irritable.

"It took quite a while but we discovered he was allergic to the face powder his wife wore," the doctor said. "Most such cases turn out to have similar answers."

But a third physician said symptoms of an allergy often may be purely psychological.

"Husband and wife just don't like being near each other," he said. "But they don't want to admit this, even to themselves. So they come up with symptoms which they hope they can blame on an allergy."

LONDON—Parliament will be asked whether a doctor's duties under Britain's socialized medicine program include answering emergency night calls for contraceptives, it was learned Tuesday.

Such an incident was reported to have taken place recently. The call was said to have come from a woman.

Under the British national health service plan, a doctor who refuses to attend a patient can be fined if he is found in the wrong.

Henry Kirby, Conservative member of Parliament, will ask Parliament whether a doctor who prescribes contraceptives for a patient on the national health program breaches his terms of service if he refuses to answer night calls for them.

TORONTO—Rev. Allan Ferry said Tuesday "Ontario's beverage rooms are dirty, filthy places and it's time we improved conditions."

He told the annual meeting of the Ontario Temperance Federation he believes if people have to drink, let the lounges and beverage rooms be comfortably furnished with plush chairs and the gaiety of pianos.

Dr. John Linton, general secretary of the National Temperance Federation, said he was against improving conditions. He said: "A dirty, filthy slot would not get as much business as a painted lady."

TORONTO—Alcohol, not communism, may destroy Canada and the United States, a Tennessee evangelist said here Tuesday night.

Dr. Harry Denman conjured up a vision of vast expanses of shifting sands covering Toronto and Washington, D.C., 500 years from now.

"Nothing here but shifting sands, shifting sands, shifting sands," he said, his voice tapering from thunder to a whisper.

"Look at Babylon, nothing there but shifting sands," he told 300 delegates at the Ontario Temperance Federation's annual banquet.

court case about the right of a judge to order admissions. The new section allows a judge to recommend admissions, but the final discretion lies with the superintendent of the school.

ONE FOR SIX

The new legislation will ultimately replace six existing laws—the Mental Hospitals Act, the Clinics of Psychological Medicine Act, the Schools for Mental Defectives Act, the Provincial Mental Health Centres Act and the Provincial Child Guidance Clinics Act.

It lays out a new admission procedure for all mental institutions.

In essence the new act wipes out court-ordered admissions, except where a person is de-used in pulling the trigger. Taking the pistol in his right hand, the lawyer put his second finger on the trigger and asked whether Graves had ever known anyone to fire a gun in that manner. "That would be most unusual, wouldn't it?" Bell asked.

Graves said that it would be for him but that he couldn't speak for others.

Ruby's lawyers contend he triggered the gun with his second finger. They argue he was in a state of mental shock and did not realize that he was using the second finger.

Graves testified he wrenched the pistol from Ruby's hands after Ruby shot Oswald. He corroborated Leavelle's testimony that Ruby's hands were contracting, apparently trying to fire more shots after the one that killed Oswald. Graves said he gripped the cylinder of the pistol, preventing it from firing again.

20 Years' Taxes Paid By Widow On Wrong Lot

City finance committee today agreed to bail a Victoria widow out of her predicament—for 20 years she has paid taxes on the wrong land.

Mrs. Martha Jankow, 2735 Victor, thought she owned the lot next door, where she has long cultivated a garden. Since 1944 she and her husband paid taxes billed on that land.

After her husband died recently, she learned a mistake had been made at city hall at the time of purchase and the land actually belonging to her was two blocks further up the street.

The lot next door is owned by the city, and taxes on both pieces of land would be the same, finance committee was told.

The city will buy her lot for $1,500 and offer theirs for the same price, also paying for the legal fees.

Teachers' Convention Set To Probe Individuality

Experts on mental health, teaching machines and educational research will be featured speakers Friday and Saturday in Greater Victoria Teachers' Association convention.

Convention theme is "The Individual in an Age of Conformity," and lead-off speaker at a public meeting tonight will be Cedric Boeske, director of the Santa Barbara, Calif., school system's work experience program.

The public meeting and all sessions of assemblies and symposiums will be at Victoria Senior Secondary School.

Ronald E. Jones, inspector of special education for the Toronto school board, will speak at a Friday afternoon assembly.

He is a graduate of University of Toronto in arts and Ontario College of Education in pediatrics. A post-graduate year was spent studying mental health and education.

Morning speaker will be Dr. E. D. Nichols, co-ordinating editor of mathematics for the publishing house of Holt, Rinehart and Winston. His most recent accomplishments include a series of four programmed texts, or simple teaching machines.

Dr. Nichols, appointed head of Florida State mathematics education department in 1961, is known locally for the text Modern Elementary Algebra, used in Maths 9.

Saskatchewan-born Dr. H. S. Baker, who has lived most of his life in Alberta, is dean of the education faculty at University of Alberta Calgary campus.

He speaks to the convention Saturday morning, and again with the other guests at an afternoon symposium.

Dr. Baker is graduate of University of Toronto in arts, took his master's at U of A, and doctorate in educational research at Columbia University.

In 1958 he was awarded the Weston Fellowship at London Institute of Education, enabling him to spend a year studying in Europe.

Ask The Teacher

Q.—Will pupils attending grade 10 in a junior secondary school be given the chance to be recommended in their subjects in the same way that grade 10 students are in a senior secondary school?

A.—Pupils in both junior and senior grade 10 classes will receive equal treatment as regards promotion and recommendation in their subjects.

Q.—Can any pupil in grade 12 who has made average progress write the government exams in June to gain assistance toward his university fees? Are scholarship exams and the government exams in June the same thing?

A.—Yes. However, those who write the university entrance exams held by the department of education in June to gain assistance toward their fees at university usually do so on advice of teachers.

Further, they must make application to the department for permission to write for scholarships. Forms are available from principals.

These are the only examinations for determining who is eligible for scholarships or remission of fees.

"brutally" that she is not welcome in Quebec.

Prime Minister Pearson said plans for the Queen's visit will not be affected by such "irresponsible" statements.

Quebec Premier Lesage also denounced those opposing the Queen's visit.

When Mr. Chaput's remarks were quoted by Leon Balcer, Progressive Conservative MP for Trois-Rivières, he was greeted by cries of "treason."

The federal government announced it did not intend to take action against Mr. Chaput for his statements.

NOT SERIOUS

Mayor Wilfrid Hamel of Quebec City said he thinks there is "nothing serious" in the Chaput statement. While "several youngsters" might try to do something, he didn't think they would succeed.

In Montreal, a police source said there were growing fears that Quebec extremists might be planning an assault on the Queen when she visits the province next fall.

The source, who asked not to be identified, said police are certain the terrorists who have armed themselves with weapons seized in raids on two Quebec armories are "young fanatics capable of a suicide mission that would win maximum publicity for their cause."

Crash Victims Robbed

BOGOTA (Reuters)—Bandits stole the money and jewels from victims of a crash between a bus and a lorry near the village of El Spinal, Colombia, about 225 miles southwest of Bogota, in which 10 people were killed and 26 injured, reports reaching here Sunday said. The bus caught fire.

vately incorporated societies in the venture, he noted.

At a meeting of city finance committee, in which Greater Victoria Association for the Retarded made application for an operating grant, it was observed that the new legislation may affect such a society.

Mr. Young suggested the city should "go slowly into this area of increased services so that we won't have a financial burden."

He said the amount of provincial aid to outpatient service at the moment is limited. Under the new plan outpatient service will increase.

Spokesmen for other municipalities reacted cautiously, suspecting a shift of financial responsibility to the local tax base.

IN OPPOSITION

Saanich Reeve Stanley Murphy was in "complete opposition" to the new legislation. "Our revenue sources do not allow us to provide this kind of service," he said.

For years, he said, municipalities have been trying to shift this type of responsibility on to the province, the reeve said.

Hospital administrators were pleased with the new law.

George Masters of Royal Jubilee, said it would help hospitals to set up new psychiatric wards and would permit families closer contact with patients undergoing treatment, a factor that speeds recovery.

At St. Joseph's Hospital, Sister Mary Ann Celeste said mental health should be dealt with at the community level, "perhaps with psychiatric units established at existing general hospitals."

Quebec City's police chief, Roger Lemire, said his department wants to "establish the situation" and work out plans before making any statement. Another high-ranking Quebec police officer said he thinks most of the city's population will welcome the Queen but "there may be more crackpots at work than usual" because of the publicity.

A peaceful protest against the Queen's visit was made Jan. 30 by the law students' association of Laval University in Quebec City.

Brian Mulroney, bilingual association president, said the reason for the protest was that about $1,000,000 is expected to be spent on the royal visit "while many university students are impoverished."

He said the money could be put to a more useful purpose such as providing 2,000 scholarships and described the protest as a "symbolic gesture."

A federal government source denied that the visit would cost $1,000,000.

Priority Urged for Uvic

The University of Victoria should get highest priority in government building grants, a University of B.C. professor said Wednesday.

The split campus in Victoria is "the most unfortunate situation" in B.C.'s higher education system, Patrick McGeer, Liberal MLA for Point Grey said.

In order to remedy the situation, Uvic should get top priority for its building program on the new campus.

Dr. McGeer also asked Education Minister Leslie Peterson in the legislature to disclose how much the government cut off Uvic's budget demands this year.

Mr. Peterson refused to give any figures.

"I have many discussions and many requests," he said. The requests vary a great deal from time to time, he added. "We are concerned here with the funds that have been granted. I'm sure all the universities will get along very well."

Uvic's grants had a very substantial boost this year, he said. An increase of 51 per cent in operating aid alone. Disclosure of the amounts actually asked by the universities should be up to them, he said.

The legislature approved university grants totalling $22,380,000, of which Uvic gets $2,990,000, compared with $2,154,000 last year.

Alan Macfarlane (L—Oak Bay) accused Mr. Peterson of putting out scandalous, misleading and improper figures for government university spending in the last election.

An election advertisement said $5,000,000 had been spent on Uvic, he said.

Mr. Peterson replied that the advertisement did not say the government had spent the money. Including the new budget, the total government aid is $2,300,000, he said.

MAN PLUNGES TO DEATH TRYING TO AVOID FIRE

VANCOUVER (CP)—George Thomas hung by one arm from the fifth-floor window of his blazing apartment Wednesday night waiting for help that never came.

The 40-year-old scrap metal worker dropped five storeys to his death as people from other apartments in the building rushed to his aid.

Roy Rogers, who was visiting with a friend on the third floor of the East End apartment house, said he heard screams for help. "I looked out the window and saw a man hanging by one arm. He was yelling 'fire'," Rogers said.

"I ran upstairs and we were banging his door in when he fell."

Firemen believe the chesterfield in the apartment caught fire and that heavy smoke drove Thomas to the window where he hung until he dropped.

COLUMBIA TREATY

Thompson Hits NDP Stand

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Social Credit leader Robert Thompson Wednesday accused New Democratic Party leader J. C. Douglas of uttering "foolish prattle" when he described the Columbia River Treaty as a betrayal of Canadian interests.

The NDP, Mr. Thompson added, was in fact acting against the interests of Canadians by declaring it would use every means in its power to deny approval of the Canada-U.S. treaty.

The Social Credit chief made the comments during the second day of debate on a government resolution referring the treaty and its revisions to the House external affairs committee for study.

He wound up by offering his party's wholehearted endorsement of the treaty.

Following Mr. Thompson in the debate was Real Caouette who said his Creditiste group—which has split with the national Social party—also was going to support the treaty.

Their statements, plus a qualified endorsement given by the Conservatives Tuesday, left the NDP as the only party in the Commons opposed to the treaty.

Mr. Thompson described the treaty as a "thoroughly and completely good proposition."

He said he expected the Socialists to "have a mental block on profit—but it is mischievous to suggest it is a bad deal just because the U.S. is making some profit out of it."

Dog-In-Manger Attitude Hit

"Both sides profit," Mr. Thompson said. "We will never build this country if we are going to take a dog-in-the-manger attitude over sharing some of our wealth with our neighbor."

Mr. Caouette said he believed the treaty in its revised form respected the provincial autonomy of British Columbia—"something the former Conservative government completely forgot."

He praised the Social Credit government of B.C. for having "provided the grounds for a better agreement with the United States."

He said Socialists would "play politics" with the treaty because "the only corner where socialism still has a hold is in B.C., and naturally they have to decry the Social Credit premier of B.C."

Mr. Caouette, who gave no support whatever to reports he is out of favor with B.C. Premier Bennett for his Quebec nationalism, called on all MPs to "forget matters of party politics, forget whether the Tories or the Liberals got the best deal."

In response to the criticism of Mr. Douglas, Mr. Caouette said Premier Bennett had "done more for B.C. in twelve years than he (Douglas) did as premier of Saskatchewan for 17 years."

Furthermore, he said, Mr. Bennett had done more than "any socialist premier in the world."

The Douglas criticism of the treaty was "horrible," Mr. Caouette did find one part of the Columbia development deal hard to swallow, however. That was the arrangement under which the U.S., in effect, will pay for the dams to be built on the B.C. section of the international river.

"When it comes to developments of this kind," he asked, "why do we have to go to foreign interests to ask for financing? Why do we not go to the Bank of Canada and ask them to create the credit that we can create in this country?"

Because the B.C. government was satisfied with the treaty, Mr. Caouette said, the Creditiste Party was, too.

"I hope this respect due to the province will continue for all provinces in the future," he concluded.

The debate continues today.

'I'M ALL FOR THE GUY'

DETROIT (AP)—James R. Hoffa's conviction of tampering with the Nashville jury "was a bad mistake . . . I'm all for the guy—100 per cent—no matter what happened."

This comment from Teamsters union member Carl Schumacher, 48, summed up a lot of reaction from the rank-and-file Wednesday in the union president's home town. Hoffa was found guilty of two counts of tampering with the jury that tried him for labor conspiracy in 1962.

In his home Local 299, a few members thought the trial and conviction were fair.

Broadcast Censoring Opposed by Pearson

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said in the Commons Wednesday he is opposed to Parliamentary censorship of broadcasts.

Broadcasts that break the law are dealt with under existing law, he said.

Mr. Pearson was replying to Robert Prittie (NDP—Burnaby-Richmond) after a flurry of questions about a broadcast Tuesday night in the CBC television network series Viewpoint.

Nicholas Mandziuk (PC—Marquette) said the broadcast was made by a former member of Mr. Pearson's staff who said many Canadians were opposed to the Queen's planned visit to Quebec in October.

Mr. Mandziuk described it as "unwarranted, outrageous and disloyal." He identified the speaker as Yvon Turcot.

A spokesman for the prime minister said outside the House Mr. Turcot had never worked on Mr. Pearson's staff.

Mr. Pearson said he could not accept Mr. Mandziuk's description because he had not seen the broadcast, but would bring the Manitoba MP's remarks to the attention of the CBC.

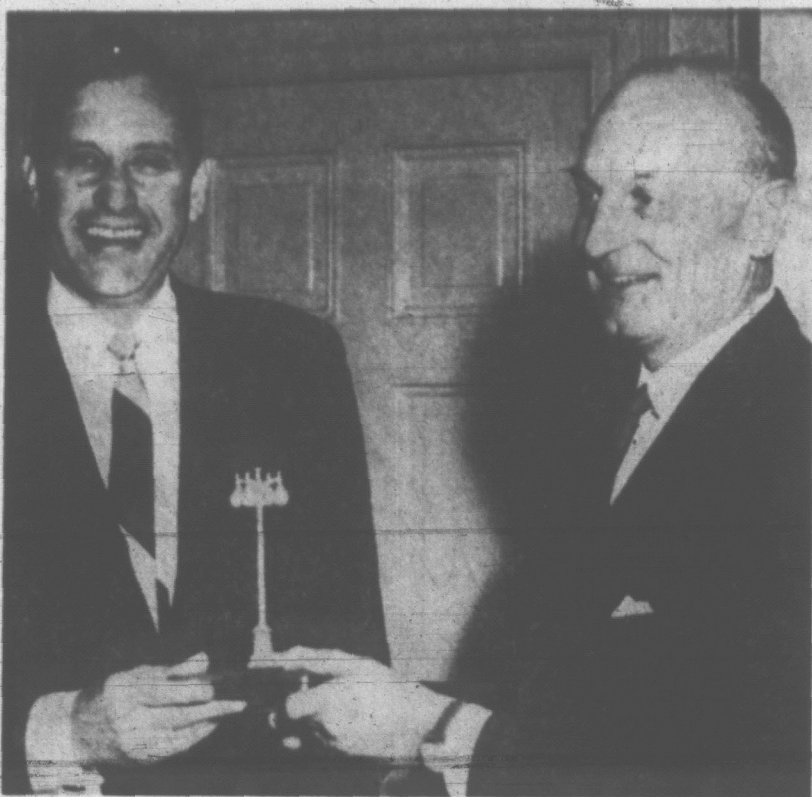

Mr. Mandziuk then asked if the government would introduce legislation "to prevent a recurrence of such outrageous broadcasts."

Mr. Pearson said he could not reply without having the matter looked into.

Mr. Prittie then asked for an assurance the government would not introduce Parliamentary censorship of broadcasting.

"I don't believe in that kind of thing," Mr. Pearson said.

"When broadcasts break the law they can be dealt with under the law as it stands."

A CLUSTER LAMP POST from Mayor R. B. Wilson, right, shows city's appreciation for Holiday magazine's profile on Victoria, accepted by publisher J. M. White.

Blinking Tea in Its Eyes Victoria Says Thank You

Model cluster lamps were presented to a Philadelphia publisher Wednesday at a civic luncheon marking publication of a prominent American magazine touting Victoria.

Mayor R. B. Wilson, cabinet ministers P. A. Gagliardi, Robert Bonner and Kenneth Kieran and other dignitaries attended the function at which Mayor Wilson gave Holiday magazine publisher James M. White the city's souvenir symbol.

In return, Mr. White gave the mayor a leather-bound copy of the April Holiday, chock full of stories and pictures on Canada.

After dining on such local delicacies as smoked salmon, baked crab and loganberry parfait — noticeably absent from the article—Mr. White made informal calls on Premier Bennett and Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes, giving them copies of the issue.

The Victoria story is written by Weekend magazine staff writer Stephen Franklin, a frequent visitor here.

Despite a few minor inaccuracies and perpetuated myths, it is a thorough description of the city's charms, its citizen's follies and philosophies.

It is a profile to gladden the tourist-tuned heart of publicity chief Alan Maclean.

The tone Franklin sets is illustrated by a New Yorker's remark: "This town is so bloody English it brings tea to your eyes."

But he acknowledges attempts by the native-born to obliterate this false image.

A major error is stated early. "Behind picturesque old Victoria and the vast, unfrequented dry-dock at Esquimalt."

Further along, Mr. Franklin calls Crystal Garden the largest indoor salt water pool on the continent, although it hasn't seen a lick of salt for going on a decade.

'AIR CANADA JUST LIKE AIR CONGO'

HALIFAX (UPI) — The Chronicle-Herald, in an editorial titled "Poor Choice," today said the proposed change in the name of Trans-Canada Air Lines to Air Canada "exceedingly pedestrian."

The editorial said this "latest national experiment" in biculturalism would give Canada an airline "with a title no different than those of such giants as Air Mali, Air Gabon, Air Congo and the like."

"Air Canada, of course, is both French and English . . . it is also exceedingly pedestrian and about as 'distinctively Canadian' as the Douglas Jets flown by TCA," the paper said.

Vancouver Man Faces Medical, Fraud Charges

VANCOUVER (CP) — Harry Van Gelder was remanded Wednesday to March 12 on a charge of defrauding the public and of unlawfully practicing medicine.

The charges followed a police raid on the radionic institute clinic in downtown Vancouver.

Police allege Van Gelder collected money fraudulently by offering medical services he was not qualified to perform.

Police said a machine was found on the premises to analyze blood but that it was incapable of the task.

Abatement of smoke in the city's air pollution control program is expected by June 1, when major smoke producing industries will have modified plants or shut down.

City manager Dennis Young reports recent meetings with industrial firms and advisory committee on smoke control have "broken the back of the problem at last."

Smoke producers have agreed to:

Limit the use of a waste burner at Smith Cedar Products by installing a chipping plant, then a hog fuel unit.

OAK BAY ULTIMATUM

Cut Mode of Living Or Pay Higher Tax

By MARGE GILROY

Oak Bay ratepayers face two alternatives—spiralling taxes or a change in their mode of living.

The status quo of the residential municipality must end.

In the past increased assessments kept pace with increased expenditures. Now the time is fast approaching when the depreciation factor is going to catch up with and offset increased assessments.

"When this point is reached either our tax basis or our type of living must be altered," said Reeve Allan Cox.

Vacant land is at a premium and all major subdivision sites have been developed.

Only remaining sources of increased revenue are residential taxes, or land reutilized by mere revenue-producing buildings, namely apartments.

Oak Bay council has been wrestling with this problem for a number of years. But Reeve Cox took office this year determined to see planning paramount on council business.

A long range plan for improvements is to be considered by council once wage negotiations and other "housekeeping" matters are out of the way.

A year ago municipal engineer Geoffrey White submitted a plan to the council which included all the capital works that should be done to put Oak Bay in "good shape" for a number of years.

The plan was approved but drifted into limbo, as an agreement was never reached on how the work should be financed.

FIRST CHOPPED

Every year a sum is included in the budget for capital expenditures but when extraneous bills come along it is always this part of the budget which gets chopped, the reeve said.

Water mains and sewers which need replacing and construction of a second reservoir on Mount Tolmie are projects which are postponed from year to year as the budget gets chopped.

The only way to see that this work is done is to commit the next council to a long-range plan by having to repay a loan, said the reeve, who favors borrowing substantial sums to do the work now.

Such a loan could be spread over a 20-year period and the mill rate set accordingly.

MUST BOOST RATE

"I have said all along that we must increase the mill rate," commented the reeve.

"But how much will the people stand before we have to change our tax basis and go into apartments?" he asked.

When apartments first started to spring up in Oak Bay the reeve said a laissez-faire policy was followed. The result is a string of matchbox-type of buildings through the municipality.

The council then stepped in with stiff regulations demanding that they be built with larger setbacks and on restricted sites only.

Perhaps we have gone too far in this direction and it is not good economics, said the reeve.

Pending applications for apartment zoning and rezoning and local improvements all fall under a larger pattern of municipal finances soon to be considered.

Hoffa Still the King To Teamster Members

DETROIT (AP)—James R. Hoffa's conviction of tampering with the Nashville jury "was a bad mistake . . . I'm all for the guy—100 per cent—no matter what happened."

This comment from Teamsters union member Carl Schumacher, 48, summed up a lot of reaction from the rank-and-file Wednesday in the union president's home town. Hoffa was found guilty of two counts of tampering with the jury that tried him for labor conspiracy in 1962.

"If a man is guilty he has to pay," Teamster Israel Jones said.

More men among the truck drivers thought Hoffa got a "raw deal."

"I've voted Democratic all my life but I'll back anybody now who will get this administration out of office," said Richard Sims, 45.

"Yes, we'll stick with Hoffa, all right," declared Raymond Rashid, 28. "Hoffa is the best thing that ever happened to the Teamsters in Detroit."

None of Hoffa's Teamsters union officials at headquarters in Detroit commented on the conviction.

Those Dangerous Swaps

MR. KENNETH HODGSON, president of the British Columbia Federation of Fish and Game Clubs, emerged from his delegation's meeting with Mr. Kenneth Kiernan last week with various statements on the conservation minister's discussion with the outdoorsmen.

Among other things Mr. Hodgson said Mr. Kiernan had mentioned the possibility of swapping timber in parks not being used at present by the public for land elsewhere which could be used to create new parks.

Superficially this may appear to some people to be a good way of getting new parks at little public expense. The timber in the areas unused by the public at present, it is argued, isn't doing anyone any good—so trade it for acreage that would be brought into quick recreational use.

Any suggestion that this is one way of acquiring parks for nothing collapses immediately the point is made that timber disposed of in this way is, in fact, property worth a lot of money.

On earlier occasions such swaps have been made and new parks real estate acquired by the province. Precedent is no justification for a continuation of the practice.

As public outcry has disclosed in recent days, many British Columbians are against the disposal of timber in parks—any disposal in any parks.

Quite apart from its reduction of existing park assets, the swapping arrangement is clearly an invitation to costly deals. Some interests want timber in a specific park—there is always someone who wants park timber. The interests seeking the timber own, or acquire, property considered adequate for parks development. They then approach the government with an offer to swap, a method of doing business which avoids the difficulties of competitive bidding.

Even if political considerations do not enter the negotiations, this is an undesirable and exclusive way of disposing of Crown timber.

The degree to which the public may be injured, apart from possible parks desecration through logging, may be indicated through analysis of replies given to Mr. Alan Macfarlane's questions by the government. He had asked in the legislature for pertinent information on the swap of timber in Wells Gray Park for property in the Parksville area.

Until the relevant facts, perhaps with some supplementary information, are studied, no one outside the contracting parties can tell how much is being paid for the Parksville property—how much it cost the people of British Columbia—or what is the real cash value of the Wells Gray timber traded away by the government.

President Sukarno's Dangerous Game

THE VIET NAM PROBLEM IS the focus of most attention devoted to Southeast Asian affairs these days since American prestige and influence are so fully involved in the struggle there.

Largely unnoticed, as a result, has been the continuing dispute between Indonesia and the newly-created Malaysian Federation over the territories of Sabah and Sarawak which adjoin Indonesian Borneo. This dispute is close to breaking into open warfare with President Sukarno of Indonesia refusing to pull back his guerrilla fighters from the Malaysian territory where they have engaged in minor skirmishes with British troops who are defending the area.

Sukarno's latest move is a threat to supply his guerrilla forces by air to which Britain has replied that any Indonesian aircraft flying into the area will be shot down.

The situation is made more dangerous by the fact that President Sukarno is reported to have serious domestic troubles. The Indonesian economy has slipped badly in recent months, largely as a result of sequestration of British and Dutch holdings and the consequent withdrawal of foreign exchange funds. Inflation has hit the country hard.

For the first time, apparently, there are signs that President Sukarno is having difficulty controlling the large and aggressive Indonesian Communist Party. His control of the country has been achieved mainly by playing off the army against the Communists and vice versa.

There is a possibility that the Indonesian president will resort to the classic tactic of the beleaguered dictator, and seek to ease his domestic troubles by stepping up the fight against the Malaysian Federation. The Federation's premier, Tengku Abdul Rahman, has stated that if this happens and if an agreement cannot be reached on withdrawing Indonesian forces, Malaysia will have no recourse but to attack the guerrilla bases in Indonesian territory. What is now only border skirmishing could become a full-scale war.

Rom Knott

TO OLD FRIENDS ON THIS newspaper, as to countless others who knew him well, the tragic death of Rom Knott in yesterday morning's traffic accident brought numbing shock.

Here was a man who spent cheerfully the days of living—a man of good-fellowship, ready laughter, quick sympathy, a man whose vitality found expression in countless acts of kindness and help to anyone around him.

From the various sports he had played so well in youth he drew the knowledge and enthusiasm which led him to organize, coach and direct young people in similar activities following his own playing career. They were fortunate to come under his influence, to learn from him not only the techniques of games, but the meaning of sportsmanship which was characteristic of his attitude to life.

His friends appreciate their personal loss in his sudden passing, but it is not their loss alone. The communities he served so well are poorer for his leaving them. Men of Rom Knott's stamp can fill be spared.

What's Needed for Future Jobs?

TO DEFINE THE NEED FOR better planning to meet the problems of unemployment due to changes in technology and scientific advance, Mr. E. P. O'Neal, secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Federation of Labor, told the British Columbia Natural Resources Conference an interesting story.

An ambitious worker whose trade had become obsolete and died, had applied at one of the government centres for retraining to equip himself for a new job. He chose welding.

When he had completed his training, the authorities found there were no openings at all for his type of welding, but they were so impressed with the way the worker had applied himself to retraining that they made a post for him. Ten other applicants had registered for the welding course. So the authorities made the new graduate their teacher. At the completion of the course, there were 11 unemployed welders instead of one.

Air Canada

PARLIAMENT IS QUITE RIGHT in changing the name of Trans-Canada Airlines to Air Canada.

For more than a decade, "Trans-Canada" has been a misnomer. Overseas routes have carried the line to the United Kingdom, to point made by several speakers discussing manpower problems, unemployment and automation. Industry, said one of its spokesmen, had been over-cautious and unimaginative in looking ahead to what it required in the way of special skills.

More foresight and a readiness to move away from conventional thinking was required. So, also, was it needed in government schemes, said speakers.

It is impossible to know what demands will be made for which particular skills in the years far ahead. At the same time reasonable anticipation could doubtless indicate probable needs in the near future.

One point made at the conference deserves special notice in this respect. It concerned the virtues of a general education which created in the recipient a flexibility that permitted him to change and to make adjustments to fill the jobs still over the horizon, but due to come into sight quickly on the wings of technological development.

Europe and to the West Indies, thus rendering obsolete the nomenclature which was appropriate only when the service was confined to this country. "Air Canada" is a good name. It is short, it is descriptive and—best of all—it is bilingual!

Back up, you hear, back up!!!

FROM WASHINGTON

Policy Carrying the 'Lazy L' Brand

WHEN Lyndon B. Johnson entered the White House just a bit more than a hundred days ago, no one could say quite how he would tackle the management and direction of American foreign policy.

By slow degrees, however, a rather clear pattern has emerged. The pattern's outlines are merely strengthened and emphasized by the departure of Roger Hillsman and the choice of William Bundy for the crucial Far-Eastern assistant secretaryship at the state department.

Alsop

Central Place

In this new pattern, the president's own place is, of course, central. It has to be. His guiding hand is not felt, as President Kennedy's was felt, at all levels of the foreign policy machine; for he does not have his predecessor's habit of calling desk officers and other lesser policy-makers when his curiosity is aroused. But the hand is there, all the same.

The chief guide lines are established at a long weekly meeting, generally a luncheon. This always includes Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defence Robert McNamara and the chief of the foreign policy staff in the White House, McGeorge Bundy. More often than not, CIA director John A. McCone is present.

Unless a crisis bubbles up somewhere, this weekly meeting is the biggest single chunk of time the president gives to foreign policy during his office hours. Except in a period of crisis, he has no liking for being interrupted in his office by being given ambassadorial cables and the like, when they are still hot off the giddle.

Instead, McGeorge Bundy closes each day by preparing a brief memorandum on the day's flow of documents. This is given to the president, together with all the more significant papers in the memorandum, when he leaves his office in the evening. The next morning, the pile of papers generally a large one is returned with the president's comments.

His staff knows which papers the president has had time to absorb because he puts his own brand on them, marking each such document with "the lazy L," as his staff calls it, because the initial resembles a cattle brand. He is a rapid reader, contrary to common report, and he gets through an impressive amount of homework every night.

Such is the basic routine. As in any other policy-making process, however, the "who" is more significant than the "how." And in the Johnson administration, it is evident that Secretary of Defence McNamara is an even stronger figure than he was in the Kennedy years—which is saying a lot.

The role of McGeorge Bundy and the White House foreign policy remains as important as ever. Since the president's instructions to the state department are generally channelled through the secretary himself, Secretary of State Rusk also has a clearer role than he used to have. Yet the emergence of McNamara as a fully equal partner in foreign policy-making is the most significant new development.

Co-ordinated Approach

Finally, there is the other new development, foreshadowed by the president's choice of Thomas Mann as assistant secretary for Latin-American affairs and now rather openly confirmed, as it were, by the choice of William Bundy to run Far-Eastern affairs.

Both of these areas of policy-making were marked, until quite recently, by an extraordinary multiplicity of viewpoints and an active competition between advocates of opposing views. President Kennedy was tolerant—perhaps too tolerant—of discords in the chorus, because he was always confident that he alone would make the final decision.

President Johnson also seems, sometimes, to ask the opinion of every Tom, Dick and Harry who happens to gain access to the White House offices. But, although he likes to hear what all and sundry think about Viet Nam, for instance, he very much dislikes perpetual pulling and hauling inside the government machine.

To Mirror the President

Instead, he wants all the persons who have responsibility in any given policy area of current importance to approach that area's problems from something close to his own viewpoint. Mann thinks as the president does about Latin America, so Mann was put in charge.

In the case of the state department's Far-Eastern division, the process required two steps. First, William H. Sullivan, formerly of Governor Averell Harriman's staff, was given general co-ordinating authority over the gravest and most tangled problem, the war in Viet Nam. And then the brilliant senior Bundy brother was brought over from the defence department to assure a Far-Eastern team united at all levels.

Quietly, but firmly and effectively, the president has thus gathered the reins of foreign policy authority and responsibility into his own hands and reshaped the machine to suit himself. It has been a decidedly reassuring performance.

Connolly On Senate

By MAURICE WESTERN

SENATOR John Connolly, the new government leader in the Upper House, the other day set forth in general terms the Liberal plan for retirement of senators at age 75. At the same time he made out a moderate and persuasive case for the second chamber and offered a variety of suggestions for improving its role in our parliamentary system.

Western

The new legislation differs in two important respects from that introduced in 1962 by Mr. Diefenbaker. It would provide compulsory retirement only for new appointees. Senators already appointed for life would have the option of retiring or staying on. This should remove the objection, heard previously, that the government was proceeding in an arbitrary fashion.

In Case of Illness

Mr. Connolly indicated a second difference when he suggested that there might be provision for earlier retirement in the case of senators unable to discharge their duties for reasons of health.

While the bill should achieve the same end as that sought by Mr. Diefenbaker, it will thus do so by means more acceptable to the Senate and over a longer period of time.

Senator Connolly's case was that the second chamber at its best plays the four-fold role recommended for such bodies in 1918 by the British royal commission presided over by Viscount Bryce. Its appropriate functions are: the revision of bills passed by the Commons; the initiation and examination of non-contentious legislation; the intervention of such delay as may be needed to secure an adequate expression of popular opinion on contentious bills, and full and free discussion at any time on matters of public policy.

Without Partisanship

Possibly because of his conviction that "the Senate's best work has been done in an atmosphere devoid of partisan considerations," Mr. Connolly was careful not to disturb the atmosphere by any reference to the celebrated Coyne case. This suggests, however, that the Senate is capable of playing roles not envisaged by Viscount Bryce, in this instance that of providing a hearing for a public servant in controversy with the government and unable to obtain such in the House of Commons.

Mr. Connolly quoted and appeared to endorse the view of the late Senator Dandurand that politics should be muted in the Upper House. "I would venture the view," he said, "that at this time in this country an impressive display of reasonable restraint in debate here would find a warm response in Canadian public opinion." While he did not elaborate on the peculiar circumstances of the time, we now have the second successive minority parliament and a set of conditions which makes the life of the government dependent upon the least restrained groups in the House of Commons.

Freed of a Chore

The appointment of a commissioner to hear divorce evidence has undoubtedly freed the Senate for work of more importance to more people. How can it best use its new freedom? The answer, in Senator Connolly's opinion, is that in future it should do more of the things that in the past it has done best. Its most valuable service, probably, has been performed by a number of committees which in recent years have carried through a number of highly important investigations and published reports for the guidance of the government, parliament and the public generally.

Mr. Connolly suggested that the Senate should reactivate the work of many of its standing committees, taking cognizance of what has been done both by the Senate of the United States and by the House of Lords in Britain. He thought, for example, that the Senate might undertake useful studies in foreign affairs.

He mentioned also the centennial and world's fair activities as a possible field of study by the committee on the tourist industry. In view of the great expenditures being incurred for these projects, there are undoubtedly a good many on both sides of the House of Commons who would welcome a display of senatorial interest in such matters.

As Our Readers See It

No Degree in Socialism

David Stupich was selected by the NDP to speak on agriculture in the legislature because he is a Bachelor of Science in Agriculture, according to a news report.

It is too bad that the NDP doesn't follow the same lines of qualification when making big announcements about socialism. Although there is no degree offered on the science of society, it would be in the interest of the workers to see people like Dave Stupich acquire at least an elementary knowledge of it.

He might then be less inclined to acclaim that when the state owns an industry, all the people also own it.

World Federalists

Your editorial about World Federalism (Feb. 24, '64) should be of interest to many people. The general ideas of the Federalists are not new. They are centuries old, but alas there are still great multitudes who are completely ignorant of them.

Your editorial should do much to dispel this ignorance, and to increase the interest of others who already are aware of the movement. This, I feel, is the principal purpose of a newspaper, and therefore I both congratulate you and thank you.

With your encouragement we will go forward in new determined effort to see established "world peace through world law."

Roaming Dogs

Who sets the price of the dog licence? I would like to know, if the licence is to keep down the dog population, or is it just something to make a little bit of money on. If it is to cut down the dog population and nuisance, I think they are going about it the wrong way.

They have the small cost on the male dog who roams 95 per cent more than the female. They don't have to be bothered with puppies to be got rid of. So people get a male dog. So they put them out, day and night, to go roaming around, wetting on peoples' gardens and ruining millions of shrubs and making a general nuisance of themselves.

Now another person, although the licence costs more, gets a female so that she won't roam and bother other people. Also they are much cleaner around the house and so make better pets. As I say most of them will only roam twice a year.

The owners don't want a lot of puppies to get rid of, so they keep them in when they are in season, which isn't so hard with a female as they are much quieter.

You can get pills to give them to stop the female odor. So that unless a male dog comes near the house to hear her barking, he doesn't know she is there. But these dogs that are roaming day and night naturally hear her barking, so you can't get rid of them.

DOG LOVER.

Funeral Costs

Alex Macdonald, the provincial member for Vancouver East is quoted as saying that "hucksterism is taking us away from the simple reverent services for the dead." May I say that the fault should be placed where it belongs.

The District Council of the Royal Canadian Legion set up a committee some months ago to make arrangements for all Legion members and their dependents to obtain a dignified and understanding funeral service at a moderate cost. All Legion members were instructed to contact their branch secretaries who would supply the relevant information.

We of the committee have found that many of our members simply ignore our efforts and spend large sums of money in providing elaborate funerals for their loved ones even when it is quite apparent that the future of the survivors will be one of hardship.

Uvic Commercial Complex

The February 15 issue of this newspaper carried excerpts from a commercial development study prepared by Mr. T. W. Loney, the municipal planner-elect in Saanich. It seemed odd, somehow, to see Mr. Loney's plans published so soon; rather like a speech from the throne before Parliament has been elected.

However, this is an irrelevant comment, because Mr. Loney prepared his report in his capacity as assistant planner. More to the point is the apparent contradiction, in at least one instance, between Mr. Loney's proposals and the recommendations embodied in the University Area Study of the Capital Region Planning Board, published in 1962.

In the latter, a sizable shopping centre was proposed east of Henderson and south of Cedar: Hill Cross Road; another at the intersection of Gordon Head Road and Ruby; while to the north and east of the university campus, Cadboro Bay Village shopping centre was considered adequate to meet the demands of anticipated population growth.

If only on the grounds of geographical distribution, these appear to be eminently logical recommendations. Yet Mr. Loney demands no less than seven acres of super-market-gas station complex at the intersection of Sinclair and Finnerty—a mere three thousand feet from the existing Cadboro Bay Village shopping centre!

No doubt it would be impertinent for a layman to speculate on the inspiration that provoked this seemingly anomalous proposal of Mr. Loney's. But happily I don't think we need be too alarmed about it; for in the past, our municipal councillors in Saanich have proved themselves refreshingly undecided to the proposition that all urban planners are infallible.

CHILEANS MOPPING UP AS VOLCANO SUBSIDES

TEMUCO (AP)—Villarrica volcano subsided Wednesday and 30,000 Chileans driven to the hills by the fury of its two-day eruption began moving back to their villages and farms.

Relief officials in this southern Chilean Andes mountain area said casualties apparently were confined to the village of Conaripe, smashed by an avalanche of mud, rock and lava when the 9,325-foot volcano erupted early Monday.

So far, the bodies of two children have been recovered and 22 of the Conaripe villagers are missing and believed dead.

LABOR COUNCIL TOLD:

Funeral for $150 Aim of Society

Funerals in Victoria will soon be available for $150, Victoria Labor Council was told Wednesday night.

Marvin Evans, Unitarian minister speaking for the Memorial Society of B.C., told council the society will set up a branch in Victoria "when we are handling six deaths per month in the Victoria-Sidney area."

Present cost is $175, he said. This includes the basic cost of $125 (transportation of body, registration of death, cost of casket) plus $50 for cremation.

"Earth burial costs a total of $200," Mr. Evans said. Mr. Evans said the society was set up in Vancouver several years ago by a group of private citizens "with no axe to grind, but concerned about the high cost of dying."

GAVE UP BUSINESS

One member gave up his business as a contractor to take out a funeral director's licence.

"The movement is just starting in Victoria," Mr. Evans said. "There are thousands of members in Vancouver."

Mr. Evans said the lowest funeral price found in a recent survey was $800.

"There was increasing concern about certain practices, like public viewing of the body, elaborate deep-pile carpeted slumber rooms, etc."

"We found there is a wide spread between the possible cost and the usual cost."

The Memorial Society, Mr. Evans said, will pick up the remains, transport them to Vancouver for cremation (there are no facilities here yet for the society to store the body while registering death) then for an extra $25 bring the remains back to Victoria.

FLAT FEES

Individual membership in the society is $5, and $10 for a family. There is no further fee.

Mr. Evans said membership is transferable throughout Canada.

"There are only two caskets—one for cremation and one for earth burial," he said. "We are not prepared to handle a funeral in a church or anywhere else where survivors want the body present."

"I find I can conduct a much more meaningful service for loved ones if the body is not there."

Address of the society: PO Box 917, Postal Station A, Vancouver 1, B.C.

'Let Police Nab Bandits' Tellers Told

VANCOUVER (CP)—Bank officials said Wednesday they do not expect their employees to take risks by chasing bank bandits and all agreed that catching holdup men is a job for armed policemen.

None supported George Binnie, an inspector with the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, who said Tuesday employees should consider following robbers to see what direction they go after leaving a bank.

George Currie, regional superintendent of the Imperial Bank of Commerce, said: "We hope our employees, who are trained observers, would be able to help police with identification, but we wouldn't expect a teller to do anything to place himself or the public in danger."

"We don't ask our employees to chase and catch holdup men."

Three officials with other banks said no hard and fast rules could be made but indicated they expected their tellers to use common sense following a holdup.

Esquimalt, Oak Bay Retain Single Polls

Two municipal councils have told Victoria Labour Council they will not consider multiple polling places, while a third charges voters with not being familiar with voting arrangements.

Council received replies to letters sent recently following a call for additional polling places.

From Esquimalt municipal clerk J. W. Allen:

"Esquimalt Municipal Council, by regard to the small size and convenient shape of the municipality, is disinclined to approve the VLC proposal."

"Council . . . is still of the opinion an increase in the number of polling stations will not have any effect on the number of constituents who exercise their franchise."

And from Saanich Municipal Clerk G. Hayward:

"This (increased number of polling places) has been the case in Saanich for many years. The suggestion is that there are those not too familiar with arrangements made on their behalf."

"Voters may use the place of their choice . . . There are 13 places advertised . . . The question of location of polling places is under constant review."

Council commended Saanich.

Const. Harold Bird checks warning at Oak Bay's border.

Oak Bay Turns to Radar To 'Protect' Non-Speeders

Radar was never intended for use in heavy traffic, but if you are in the clear and in Oak Bay—beware.

The new $1,470 radar set goes into operation this week now the warning signs are strategically located at the borders.

But police chief Robert Smith said reassuringly, "It is in no sense to be used as a trap but rather it will be used to clamp down on offenders in areas where it is difficult to pace speeds."

Speeding along the Esplanade is an example of one area where it is impossible to check on offenders with a patrol car. In other cases it will be used for the driver's protection.

"Many times we receive complaints from residents who say 'there isn't a car goes by my door that doesn't hit 40," and this is not always the case," said the chief.

At present Oak Bay police have to do their own recording but an additional $600 could provide them with an automatic recorder.

And another $600 would buy an automatic ticket machine.

The radar equipment will not be in use full time but when it is there's no saying "I wasn't warned."

WELFARE 'HOLIDAY'

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator Gunnar S. Thorvaldson (PC—Manitoba) Wednesday called for a "holiday" in new social welfare spending by the federal government.

Light your way to comfort

A different bulb. A change in the position of a lamp. Little things like these can make a big difference to your day to day comfort. Good lighting in fact can reduce tension and fatigue, ease visual problems, make work less tiring and play more fun.

There's more to good lighting than having enough light. Research shows that good lighting means having the right amount of light in the right place. Lighting that is free from glare, shadow and sharp contrasts that cause discomfort and fatigue. Lighting research also shows that there is a correct lighting formula for every activity—from reading in bed to preparing a meal.

FREE! Home Lighting Kit! All of these valuable "lighting recipes" are yours in a free kit available from B.C. Hydro. The booklets in this kit tell you how to position lamps and fixtures for the best visual comfort. What size and type bulbs to choose for different jobs. How to decorate with light. How to plan lighting for kitchens, dens and entrance halls. In short, how to add comfort and beauty to every room in your home. To get your free kit, just write or call B.C. Hydro Residential Advisory Service. Good lighting can bring a new standard of comfort to your daily life. And costs only pennies a day.

Island Grads Top Givers To UBC

Nearly a fifth of UBC graduates living on Vancouver Island gave money to the university's alumni annual giving fund last year to set the best pace of graduates anywhere.

The region covered excludes Victoria where many UBC graduates have transferred their support from UBC to University of Victoria.

Last year the fund reached $89,370.75, compared with only $38,749.55 in 1962. Alumni participating increased by half to 3,728, which was credited to the slogan, "participation, not amount."

Past year's growth allowed an increase of $50 each in the 42 MacKenzie Alumni Regional Scholarships—one for each provincial electoral district.

They now stand at $350 each, and of the total, nearly one quarter of the recipients are from Vancouver Island or are attending University of Victoria from other parts of the province.

Those from Victoria are John Robert Conway Edwards, Richard Lewis Ogmundson, Linda Kileen Parsons and Paul Christopher Willing, all at Uvic.

Also at Uvic are: Wolfgang Schamberger, Duncan; Edward Paul Chais, Natal; Joan Marie Sawicki, Terrace.

Other Islanders are: Mann Marjorie Gooding, Courtenay; Wayne Alan Peace, Lake Cowichan; Richard Jackson Coates, and Edward Charles Hicks, Nanaimo.

COUNCILLORS OVER-RIDE PETITION

NORTH COWICHAN—Members of the North Cowichan Municipal Council granted a permit Wednesday to bring a drive-in restaurant to the district, to be built by the A and W Company.

Five petitions have been received by council opposing such an establishment at the northern boundary of the city limits between James Street and Trunk Road.

The fifth petition, received Wednesday, pointed out that the area is zoned already has seven eating places within a half-mile circle.

Mr. Peterson said he was not prepared to recommend to the House any changes in legislation.

Alberni citizens polled on the subject of a minister refused employment last October used the expressions "bigotted, stupid, old fashioned and out of date," in referring to the case, Mr. Squire said.

He said a person has "the right to earn a living at the best level he is qualified." By this legislation we deny him that right.

Interpretation of the act has included full-time teaching, relief teaching and adult education in the evening division. Mr. Squire quoted Mr. Peterson as having said at the time a clergyman "cannot disassociate himself from his religious beliefs when he walks into a classroom."

He said it is recognized, however, that a member of a political party who happens to be a teacher is in no way hampered. "I'm not going to ask that the member for Comox (Sacred Dan Campbell, a teacher), be denied

'DENIED RIGHT TO EARN A LIVING'

MLA Protests Teaching Ban on Clergy

He said the government recognizes that "partisan politics can be discarded on the doorstep, but not religious beliefs."

Mr. Squire showed the House letters from the governments of Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario in which it was stated clergyman may teach public school. He said this is also true in Quebec.

"They trust people in these other provinces," he remarked. He pointed further to the fact that a former education minister in B.C. was also a minister of the cloth.

Government policy here is "denial of a fundamental right" in the public schools, but in the realm of adult classes "this is ridiculous," the M.L.A. said. Mr. Peterson noted there is no rule against a minister holding the post of district superintendent or education minister, and in fact, those trained as clergymen are welcomed as teachers.

"The point is whether they are practising clergymen," he said. The act applies if they are.

When Mr. Squire asked for clarification regarding adult education teaching, the minister said he was not prepared to pre-judge the case for the superintendent of education, nor suggest any changes in legislation.

Mr. Squire said he was trying to treat the matter as delicately as possible.

"You could have been in touch with me months ago and we could have dealt with it very delicately," the minister replied.

Leonard's Golf School Coming to Victoria

By ERNIE FEDORUK

The British Columbia Professional Golfers' Association-sponsored junior clinic—an overwhelming success at Chilliwack last year—is coming to Victoria.

The school, headed by veteran professional Stan Leonard, will be held at Colwood July 13-17.

Arrangements to use Colwood, site of the Canadian junior championship last year, were completed Wednesday. Directors of Colwood, headed by president Don Ross, met with the BCPGA group Tuesday evening. Colwood eagerly accepted the host's role.

The BCPGA group included Leonard, secretary-manager Harold Kerr, Len Collett and Roy Heisler, all of Vancouver.

Kerr, the BCPGA spokesman, said the move from Chilliwack to Victoria will be finalized "once we've cleared away a few minor obstacles." He conceded they were minor. These are "transportation (to and from the course) and accommodation for 150 boys."

"We might need some help with this."

The unique clinic attracted the interest of golf executives in the U.S. as well as throughout Canada last year.

A total of 109 boys enrolled for the inaugural clinic, conducted by 10 of B.C.'s top professionals. The juniors all were lodged in a Chilliwack hotel and a 10:15 curfew was observed. Senior golfers helped serve as chaperones.

Cost of the clinic was $75 for each boy. The price included food and lodging as well as the specialized instruction.

The fee, in many cases, was reduced by various means. In Victoria, for example, The Daily Times set up an exhibition match between Bill Wakeham, the Island Open and B.C. Amateur king, and Lyle Crawford, Vancouver's match-play champion. The match netted $250 which was turned over to the Victoria District Golf Committee which, in turn, helped defray the entry costs of 10 juniors.

Various clubs also contributed towards the sending of promising young golfers.

This year, the Seven-Up beverage company in Vancouver has agreed to sponsor a special pro-am invitational team tournament. Proceeds from the event will be used to assist juniors who plan on attending this year's clinic.

It may be significant to note that of the 10 Victorians who attended last year's clinic, four later qualified for the match-play rounds in the Canadian junior tournament. They were Don Wilson, Noel Pumfrey, Gary Smith and Ricky Kent.

Pumfrey, unheralded, went on to reach the final against Wayne Volmer of Vancouver. Volmer won the national title on the 36th hole.

One of the highlights of this year's clinic will be an exhibition match at mid-week. The match may include Leonard, but also expected are "two prominent names" from the gold trail.

Kerr said this morning that applications for this year's classes are already coming in. Included are seven from Manitoba.

Victoria, he added, will be limited to 25 applicants "pending further developments."

FOR OPTIMISTS

Tough Chore Ahead

It could be a short basketball season for Victoria Optimists. It may be over in two games.

Optimists, a club without league competition this winter, got a crack at the B.C. junior men's crown this weekend. They'll tackle Vancouver's CYO Saints, playoff champions of the Inter-City Junior League, in a two-game series.

The total-point playoff will be staged at Central Junior High School Friday and Saturday, starting at 8:30 each night.

Optimists registered this season with the Victoria association, but were left all alone in the junior men's division when Victoria Chinooks elected to campaign in the Inter-City League and abandoned any claim to Island honors. Winter activity for the Optimists consisted of five exhibition tussles and a dozen of practice sessions.

THEY CHALLENGED

Chinooks finished first in their league but bowed to Kerrisdale Merchants in the Inter-City semifinals. Merchants later lost to CYO in the final.

Basketball arrangements call for a playoff between the Island champions and the lower-mountain champs. Although they had no competition in their own area, the Optimists were eligible.

They challenged the Saints and now they'll find out if their season will last more than one weekend. They can stretch it out by upsetting their rivals since the provincial champs advance to the western Canada playoff.

SAINTS FAVORED

Saints will be solid favorites, but Optimists are optimistic.

"Without competition during the season it's difficult to predict how we'll do in a playoff," said Victoria manager Neff Sprinkling today. "We have some good players and I think we might surprise the Saints."

GORDIE HOWE'S HOCKEY

Chasing an opponent behind his net is risky enough when sides are even. It's even more dangerous when you're short-handed. Yet you'll see rookies try it and get tricked by an old veteran.

Often a youngster, in his eagerness to check the puck carrier, will dart in at full speed at the man with the puck behind the net. The latter is waiting for his own players to get in position.

Or he may have the puck just to one side of the net. When the youngster darts in, all it takes is a shake of the head to get by him. Or one simple little pass.

When a wily veteran gets somebody who is a little green and likes to take big runs at him, the veteran will use his bag of tricks to full advantage.

For instance, the veteran will even set himself up for a body check when the youngster comes at him. The veteran will give with him. Or he gets a piece of him and takes him down with him.

That makes the youngster's side one man shorter yet, so when they move in, they have a little more room to throw the puck around.

Again, when the youngster goes in behind the net while he's helping kill a penalty, he's using up a lot of energy.

Usually the puck has been iced by the defending side. So when he goes in from the blue line to the net, that's 60 feet. Because he was a step behind the puck carrier who passed it ahead, he's got 60 feet more to go to get back in the play.

The smart way is to dart in after the puck carrier but slow up when you get within six or eight feet of him, try to anticipate his moves. This will get him thinking and he may hesitate or make the wrong play and your effort will pay off.

Breeze for Cliff Despite the Wind

Cross-country runners don't fade with age... they just keep running.

Take John Cliff. Back in 1961 he won the Canadian Legion Britannia Branch six-mile run in YMCA colors.

On the strength of this and other promising performances he won a scholarship to Washington State. Back at Victoria University, marathoner Cliff tuned up and turned up Wednesday for '64 Legion gallop.

Well back the first five miles, Cliff turned it on in the last mile. At the finish line on the Victoria High cinder track Cliff was 300 yards ahead of Steve Sullivan and Gary Kidson, two talented and gutsy Esquimalt High youngsters.

The winning time was 26:24 minutes, excellent considering the high winds and rain.

A huge field of 84 runners started and finished the race, the oldest (1919) cross-country in the province.

Cliff received the Britannia Branch trophy from Major Robert Love. Individual awards went to the next 14 finishers.

Other early finishers after the top three were in order: Barry Morgan, Dan Cousins, Ken Blunt, David Thorne, Jim Eaton, Gary Hamilton and Brian Kidson.

Don Campbell To Try Again

LONDON (AP)—Donald Campbell says he has patched up a quarrel with his backer and intends to make another bid for the world land speed record next April or May.

At a press conference, Campbell shook hands and exchanged smiles with Sir Alfred Owen, head of the organization which backed Campbell's world speed attempt last year.

The attempt was washed out by heavy rains at Lake Eyre in Australia. Sir Alfred delivered criticisms of Campbell and Campbell responded by bringing an action for libel.

Daryl's Not Fooling— No. 2 Player Dropped!

VANCOUVER (CP)—Jim Carnath, 28, of Woodstock, Ont., Canada's second-ranked badminton player, has been dropped from the Thomas Cup team that plays Japan here Friday and Saturday.

Selection committee chairman Daryl Thompson of Vancouver said Wednesday Carnath was dropped "because he isn't in the physical condition necessary to compete against the strong Japanese team."

STOCK AGAIN BOSS OF Softball Loop

Ernie Stock has again been named president of the Independent Athletic Association Softball League.

Other officers are Tom Alexander, vice president; John Newman, secretary; treasurer, and Gordie Perkins, umpire-in-chief.

Stock announced today that a league meeting will be called this month.

year, was named No. 2 singles player. Bert Fergus, 31, of Vancouver, is No. 3 player.

The No. 1 doubles team will be made up of Rolf and Ed Paterson, 22 and 20 respectively, of Vancouver. Fergus and Macdonnell, formerly the No. 1 team, have been slipped to the No. 2 spot.

Thompson said the Japanese are expected to play a speedy forcing type of game such as Macdonnell plays. Carnath was not able to attend a month-long special training camp and wasn't in condition to play that type of game.

POINTED OUT

"Macdonnell, in the B.C. championships this last weekend, pointed this out rather forcibly by beating Carnath 15-2, 15-0."

The winner will meet the U.S. team March 13-14 in Victoria in the zone final. The winner of that will play in the challenge round in Tokyo in May.

YEAR-OLD CHORAL GROUP

Gayfer Singers Buoyant in Concert

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON
It has been said that no music is purer, more satisfying, more able to convey a diversity of shades and textures more flexible, than that of the small vocal ensemble.

Gayfer Singers — 27 picked voices, each one of solo calibre — were presented in recital by Victoria Musical Art Society at Oak Bay Junior High School.

Conducted by Capt. James M. Gayfer, who founded the group a little over a year ago, this was a performance frequently beautiful and moving, always interesting, and rich in promise for the future.

SUBLIME HEIGHTS

Intricate contrapuntal singing of the English madrigals was carried to sublime heights in the Bach motet, "Jesu, Priceless Treasure." This was fine Bach singing, with a smooth flowing vocal line, flexible and rhythmic.

Each section was quickly established in mood and showed the musicianly skill of the conductor in shaping and development.

Two Highland folksongs with Norman Tyrrell as soloist, were deservedly popular with the audience, as also was Dett's spiritual anthem, "Listen to the Lambs," in which Ruth Champion's pure soprano tones were heard in brief solo.

One of the most entrancing numbers was Benjamin Britten's setting of a poem by W. H. Auden, "Hymn to St. Cecilia. This group, with its collectively high degree of musicianship and exceptional natural endowment, is capable of many subtleties in interpretation and the Britten number was certain indication of this.

Margaret Abbott, Erika Kurth, Eleanor Duff and Donald Twine were the solo voices, each contributing delightfully to the superb effectiveness of the whole.

New to my ears and quite enchanting were the Hungarian folk songs, "Matra Pictures," by Zoltan Kodaly. Featuring John Bray in solo passages, these were colorful, rhythmically and melodically interesting and tackled with genuine brio.

BUOYANT TONE

Capt. Gayfer obtains excellent attack and for the most part keeps the tone buoyant and smoothly textured though the balance is occasionally disturbed by over prominence of an individual voice, especially in the male section.

In swelling and forte passages the ensemble sound is positively thrilling and at any level it is pleasurable. I listened in vain, however, for an equally thrilling pianissimo and feel that this is an area which the Gayfer Singers still so new and having achieved so much — could profitably explore. Charles Palmer was the accompanist.

CHORAL WORK in memory of John F. Kennedy is being written by Igor Stravinsky. He has asked poet W. H. Auden to provide a text. Auden has collaborated with the 33-year-old composer on several works.

'New' Maths Puts Parents Out of Work

The new system of teaching youngsters' mathematics is throwing parents and grandparents out of work because they can't understand their children's homework. New Democrat Mrs. Lois Haggen complained in the legislature Wednesday.

Randolph Harding (NDP—Kaslo-Slocan) told Education Minister Leslie Peterson parents have too much difficulty understanding the system to be of help to their school children.

"I am not as concerned about the trouble to parents as to the teachers," Mr. Peterson replied.

"Perhaps it will mean more students do their own homework rather than having their parents do it," he added, admitting the system is harder for persons schooled the traditional way.

TEST COURSE

Schools May Offer Italian

A pilot course in Italian may be introduced in a B.C. public school to meet a demand pressed on the education department by Italo-Canadians.

Following the urging of Vancouver New Democrat Alex Macdonald, Education Minister Leslie Peterson told the legislature Wednesday he had received a delegation asking for the same thing.

He said the director of curriculum was asked to study such a language course, possibly with the assistance of a university professor.

Canadian-Italians are concerned their children will lose the mother tongue, and other Canadians should be given the chance to study Italian along with French, German or Spanish now available in the schools, Mr. Macdonald said.

Victoria Socred J. Donald Smith suggested Chinese should also be considered as a language elective with the others.

Mr. Peterson did not comment.

Gov't Urged To Print Text Books

The Queen's Printer should publish B.C. school text books to save public monies. Opposition member Gordon Dowling suggested in the legislature Wednesday.

It is a union shop, does excellent work, turns out an $88,000 a year profit, is "well run and has fine management when not interfered with," Mr. Dowling said in debate on Education Minister Leslie Peterson's estimates.

Queen's Printer turns out the annual budget, "which is just propaganda, but he does a fine job," the NDP member for Burnaby said.

Something of comparable size and quality would be suitable for text books, he thought.

He also noted QP did a number of copies of the Pacific Great Eastern report for 23 cents a copy, compared with a smaller run of the same report by a private printing house for $4.50 a copy.

And much of this was "propaganda," too, Mr. Dowling said.

"The government should not be in power just to engage those who print its propaganda," he declared.

Mr. Peterson replied it was doubtful if the Queen's Printer has equipment to print and bind text books.

He agreed that changing text books in a school course is an expensive business, but with the "explosion of education it is necessary to review text books in use."

N. Kiwanis Prizes Given 4-H Members

Two members of Saanich 4-H Home Arts Club were presented with Victoria North Kiwanis Club's shield for 1963 Tuesday evening.

They were Kris Andrews, 4325 Blenkinsop, and Nancy Miller, 6705 Aldous, Sidney, who were named achievement award winners at last summer's Pacific National Exhibition.

Mary Lord, 1070 Cypress, Sidney, and Linnet Lannon, 820 Birch, were 1962 winners of the same award.

The four girls, all members of the same home arts club, gave the best demonstration class at the 1963 PNE.

Miss Lord and Miss Miller were also winners of a trip to the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto last year and Miss Lannon has won a trip to Newfoundland this summer.

Tracking Down Songs of Birds Lesson in Frustration

By MARGE GILROY

Mrs. Grace Bell not only gets up with the birds, she joins them.

A keen birder, who believes it is time Canadian birdsongs were recorded by Canadians, Mrs. Bell has been recently trying to track down a song sparrow on Radcliffe Lane.

Every morning during the past couple of weeks as the sun creeps over the horizon Mrs. Bell creeps along the corridor at 742 St. Patrick Street. Garbed in woolly sweater, toque, mitts and rubber boots she makes her way out to the car with 20 pounds of tape recorder over her shoulder, binoculars around her neck, tripod, stool and a bag of tools in hand. On top of her car rests a 40-inch parabolic reflector.

Looking more like she should be on duty on the DEW line than on the bird watch along Oak Bay waterfront she sits on her carphones and prays.

NO BUS, PLEASE

"Please don't let the B.C. Hydro rumble by this way, at least not just now."

Mrs. Bell experiences no difficulty in finding birdsongs to record, it is the extraneous noises that create a problem. A long-time friend of well-known naturalist Dr. W. W. H. Gunn of Toronto she is constantly collecting the avian tunes of Vancouver Island for his collection.

In the past the centre for nature sounds has been at Cornell University. Now Toronto is beginning to enter the field of bio-acoustics and here is one Canadian who is determined to see it grow.

"I hate to see Americans having to come up here to do our recording, it is time we did our own," she said.

BIRDY PARADISE

A distinguished entomologist once described Vancouver Island as "a paradise for insects." To birders it is "a paradise for birds."

Not only is there a great variety of species but there are also innumerable dialects. "You would never recognize the Townsend Warbler from Miracle Beach as the same Townsend from Oak Bay," said Mrs. Bell.

On top of this each bird sings a slightly different tune at various stages of its life. Each mating, nesting and migrating season calls for a special song.

Right now Mrs. Bell has been trying to record the full sequence of the song sparrow's chatter.

"The song sparrow will always be in the same perch, particularly while he is declaring his territory," said Mrs. Bell, so there is never any fear of not finding him on her next trip to the beach. The only difficulty is to find peace and quiet.

Mrs. Bell said in exasperation, "Just when I get all set somebody about a block away decides it is time to start up the car and go to work."

The result is a beautiful recording of a gasoline engine in action, not a bird.

The signal of the bird song has a certain category of frequency so that other frequencies can be filtered out in copying the recording, but it is an expensive business. And already Mrs. Bell has a large investment in apparatus and tapes.

Several of her tapes have been used on professional records, but the remuneration is gratitude, not cash. Nevertheless she keeps on chasing Harlequin ducks, skylarks, song sparrows and occasionally a bug or two.

Boat, Barge in Grief As Gale Hits Island

Oil Storage Tanks Collapse

By MONTE ROBERTS

The March lion roared in typical Victoria fashion Wednesday as winds gusting up to 75 miles an hour swamped a fishboat, ruined two 25,000-gallon gasoline storage tanks, capsized a barge in Juan de Fuca Strait, and even blew the wig off a mannequin in a store window.

The wind storm started to build up about 1 p.m., reached a steady velocity of 40 miles per hour from the southwest by 3:30 p.m., hit the 75-mile-per-hour peak at 4 p.m.

The swamped fishboat was the Linda Jean, owned and skippered by S. Harada of Steveston. The captain had failed to listen to the marine weather forecast, and when the storm hit just outside Sooke harbor, his 32-foot boat was hit over the stern by a towering wave.

As the boat began to sink, the skipper shouted for help, and another fishboat turned to his aid. He stepped on the other boat without even getting his feet wet. The Linda Jean was towed to shore in Sooke Harbor, and sank in shallow water.

The two bulk storage tanks, at the British American Oil Company's depot on Songhees Road, were literally sucked into destruction by the heaviest wind blast. The storage tanks, being constructed by Dominion Bridge Co., collapsed inward when the wind passing over the open tops created a vacuum, and the quarter-inch steel plates couldn't stand the strain.

A spokesman for Dominion Bridge said today the tanks will have to be rebuilt "practically from the bottom up."

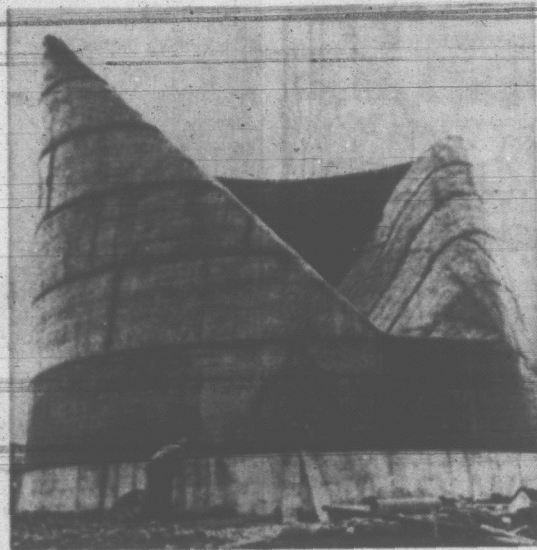

Asked if the plates couldn't be pounded back into shape, he commented: "The oil company's blueprints didn't include wrinkles."

The capsized barge broke loose from the Island Tug and Barge Co. tugboat Swell during the height of the storm, and was found upside down early today, according to the U.S. Coast Guard Station at Port Angeles.

The coast guard cutter USCGC Klamath located the drifting barge, which was a menace to navigation in busy shipping lanes. The Swell and another Victoria tug, the Island Ranger, towed the barge to Port Angeles.

Other marine troubles were narrowly avoided at Ogden Point, where a lumber barge broke loose and wound up against the breakwater. A tug pulled off the barge before damage was caused. Telephone and hydro companies escaped lightly, reporting only local service interruptions including about 12 phone circuits in the Sooke area.

The strong wind tore a service station sign off its iron mounting at the Oak Bay Junction, and several other signs were knocked over.

Sidney Coroner Passes Inquest On Traffic Death

There will be no inquest into the death of Brentwood sportsman Romilly Knott, 57, who was killed in a two-car collision early Wednesday morning.

Sidney coroner Denzil Ashby said today he had ruled out an inquest after conducting an inquiry with the RCMP.

"In cases where the cause of death is obvious we do not have to hold an inquest," he said.

Mr. Knott was killed when he was flung from his small car after it was in collision with a station wagon at the intersection of Weller Road and the Patricia Bay Highway.

Funeral services for Mr. Knott, who was often known as "Mr. Brentwood," will be held in McCall's Floral Chapel Saturday at 1 p.m. Rev. T. L. Westcott of Sluggert Memorial Church, Brentwood, will officiate.

Afterwards there will be a private committal at Shady Creek Cemetery, East Saanich Road.

Flower Festival Talent Auditions March 15-17

Auditions for a talent show to be produced for Victoria's Spring Flower Festival will be held March 15-17 in the Dominion Hotel.

Contestants will be judged from noon to 4 p.m. March 15 and from 4 to 7 p.m. on the 16th and 17th.

MARINE DEPOT SURVEY SET NEXT MONTH

Officials of the federal marine works branch in Ottawa will visit here some time in April to consider the site for the wharf, office, stores and shops centre to replace the old Victoria marine maintenance depot at the foot of the Johnson Street Bridge.

The federal public works department allocated $150,000 for the centre in its estimates, tabled in the House of Commons Wednesday.

In Ottawa officials of the marine works branch, department of transport, said they are interested in building the project on Belleville Street, between the Canadian Pacific Terminal Building and the Bapco paint plant.

But they will look over other potential sites before making a final decision.

Drivers Ticketed For '63 Licences

Greater Victoria police—ignoring a 48-hour amnesty granted by Vancouver police—have nailed nearly 100 motorists since March 1 for having obsolete licence plates.

Twenty-six have already been fined $25 each in city police court, where fines can be paid as tickets at city hall, and there are quite a few to come.

Outside municipalities handle the cases by summons, and expect a total of about 35 to appear in their courts.

Greater Victoria police could not extend an amnesty because it is not in their power, a motor vehicles branch official told the Times this morning.

Ray Hadfield, deputy superintendent of motor vehicles, said Vancouver police didn't have the power either.

WRONG IMPRESSION

"It created the wrong impression," he said.

"People got the idea they were being treated differently in different parts of the province."

"If there was any real need for the additional time, it would be given generally. They all had 60 days," he said.

Famous Star Playhouse Opener?

A fast-paced revue featuring such a famous stage personality as Raymond Massey or Lorne Greene was suggested today for the gala opening of McPherson Playhouse in Centennial Square next March.

Festival Theatre Society outlined tentative plans for the opening of the civic theatre when it applied to city finance committee for $7,000 expense money.

The request was turned over to the centennial square committee, probably to rest until a theatre manager is appointed.

Finance committee members, including Mayor R. B. Wilson expressed enthusiasm for a show that would include popular music and present a wide range of local musical and theatrical talent.

The opening, likely to coincide with 1965 Daffodil Festival, will be a "showcase of the city's best entertainment talent ... comparable to many good professional shows of its kind," said society president Audrey St. D. Johnson in presenting the brief.

The money asked for would be a grant to the society, or a sum to underwrite the production's expenses, she said.

PESTICIDES and other means used by man to alter nature will be discussed by naturalist Dr. Alfred G. Etter at the last of the season's Audubon Wildlife Films to be shown March 13 and 14 in Oak Bay Junior High School at 8 p.m. Dr. Etter's subject "Awake to Nature" will be documented by a film based on his experiences in Missouri and Michigan.

ZEKE SHOOTS UP QUADRA ST. WITH LOADED SPRAY PAINTER

A paint-spraying prankster spray-bombed his way along Quadra Street, between Falmouth and Stoba, Tuesday evening attacking cars, windows, signs and telephone poles.

Licence plates on two cars were drenched with black paint, and the windows of the Bullfrog Service Station on Quadra Street were sprayed.

Saanich police may have a suspect. Under the sprayed windows, the mad sprayer signed a name: ZEKE.

Topics of the Day

Larry Williams, injured in a car accident Saturday afternoon, is still fighting for his life.

Royal Jubilee Hospital says he has been in critical condition with head injuries, ever since the accident.

Williams was a passenger in a car that slammed off the road at Maplewood and Camrose Crescent at about 2 p.m. Saturday.

Chimney heat from an inside heater set fire to the ridgepole of a greenhouse at 1531 Cedar Hill Cross Road about 11:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Saanich fire department extinguished the flaming ridgepole, and said damage was not extensive.

Victoria Motor Sports Club will hold an autocross, a form of timed field trial, Sunday at 11:30 p.m. at Butler Bros. gravel pit, Keating Cross Road.

An excavation worker had his left leg injured Wednesday afternoon when the scraper blade on a bulldozer fell on it.

John Price, 1660 North Dairy, is in good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital today. Saanich police said the blade fell on him when he accidentally knocked the release lever.

Nu-Way Cleaners of Victoria have received a "Prestige Builders" award for the third consecutive year from the National Institute of Drycleaning. Jim McEvay, sales manager of the local firm, received the award at the institute's annual convention in Chicago.

Ask The Times

Q. Please list the seven wonders of the world in order of their importance. K.D.S.

A. They are: Great Pyramids of Giza in Egypt; Mausoleum at Halicarnassus; temple of goddess Diana at Ephesus; Nebuchadnezzar's hanging or terraced gardens of Babylon; bronze statue of Apollo, or Colossus of Rhodes; gold and ivory inlaid statue of Jupiter Olympus at Athens and the Pharos marble light-house at Alexandria.

Of these, only the great pyramid remains today.

Fourteen-year-old Ann Malone, 1704 Foul Bay Road, returned home unharmed about 5 p.m. Wednesday.

She had been missing since Saturday evening. Her mother told the Times this morning:

"Everyone was so helpful, I want to thank them all."

A woman cyclist suffered head and arm injuries when knocked from her bicycle Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Olga Streitz, 361 Walter, was riding her bicycle along the sidewalk at about 8 a.m. when she was in collision with a car driven by John Newton.

Mr. Newton was driving out from the driveway of the San Sebastian Motel, 51 West Gorge, where he lives.

Mrs. Streitz is in good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Assistant city engineer Ken Reid will speak on "Incandescent Lamp Life" at a meeting of Victoria Section, Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers, Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Flame Room, B.C. Hydro Building.

The Old Vic Players will give a performance of "A Triple Negative" for the retired members group, St. John Ambulance Association, at its meeting Wednesday at 2 p.m. at headquarters, 941 Pandora Avenue.

Provincial opposition party leaders will participate in a panel discussion "Who Can Provide the Best Alternative Government for British Columbia?" Tuesday at 12:30 p.m. in the Lansdowne Auditorium, University of Victoria.

The panel will be sponsored jointly by the university's NDP, Liberal and Conservative party clubs.

Participants will be Robert Strachan, Ray Perrault and E. Davis Fulton. Moderator is Dr. G. Reid Elliott, head of Uvic's department of economics and political science.

Panelists will speak for 15 minutes. A question period will follow.

City finance committee today considered hiring someone to keep the Inner Harbor clear of debris the year round instead of in summer months only.

It costs $1,500 for summer control of silt and jetsam, the committee noted.

H. J. Sim, who has done the work in the past, will be asked to present an estimate for year-round cleanup.

The harbor is "certainly in poor shape now," Mayor R. B. Wilson remarked.

"Yes, it needs it," manager Dennis Young added. He was instructed to bring in a report.

Vancouver Island Indians are planning a giant potlatch to celebrate a Nanaimo county court ruling that a 200-year-old proclamation allows them to hunt and fish over unoccupied land despite restrictions of the B.C. Game Act.

Chief Doug White of the Nanaimo Indian Band said plans for the potlatch will be discussed Sunday at a meeting of southern Vancouver Island Indians at Duncan.

"It could take the form of a giant potlatch or feast for all Island Indians at Nanaimo," the chief said.

In Nanaimo county court Wednesday, Judge Swenscisky quashed the conviction of Indians Clifford White and Johnny Bob by Nanaimo magistrate Lionel Beevor. Potts, who had fined them $100 each for shooting game on crown land out of season.

PROCLAMATION STANDS

The judge said the Game Act is fully constitutional, but ruled that a proclamation made by King George III in 1763, giving Indians the right to hunt for food on unoccupied land, is still in effect.

At the same time, Judge Swenscisky urged the crown to take the matter to the Supreme Court of Canada for final judgment.

Attorney General Robert Bonner declined comment until he had examined the reasons for judgment.

Meantime, B.C. Indian spokesmen applauded Judge Swenscisky's decision to quash the conviction.

JUDGMENT JUST

"We knew those boys were right from the beginning," he added.

Frank Calder, NDP MLA for Atlin and lone Indian member of the legislature, said the judgment would be recognized as just by every Indian in Canada.

Nanaimo game officer Frank Greenfield, who laid the charges against White and Bob, said he is worried over the consequences of unrestricted river fishing.

But Nanaimo Chief Doug White said he did not believe the newly-found hunting and fishing privileges would be abused.

"This has not been the case in the past and it should not be so in the future."

NEVER ABROGATED

In his one-and-a-half-hour judgment, Judge Swenscisky said:

"The hunting rights of the Indians have never been abrogated from the time of the 1763 proclamation and are still in force."

"I hold that the agreement between the Vancouver Island Indians and the crown was a solemn document with all the status of a settlement or contract."

"I realize my decision not only affects Vancouver Island Indians, and I believe this matter of great importance should go to a higher court."

Royal Roads To Entertain USAF Cadets

Twenty-nine U.S. Air Force cadets, nine instructors and three aircrew from Colorado Springs will fly to Victoria next week as guests of the Canadian Services College, Royal Roads.

They will be met at Victoria International Airport a week Friday at 4 p.m. and entertained at Royal Roads the same evening.

Saturday morning the American cadets will compete with Canadian cadets in a cross-country run and a soccer match.

In the afternoon they will watch a rugby match between Royal Roads cadets and Oak Bay Wanderers. There will be a dance in the evening.

Wing Cmdr. L. Spruston, vice-commandant at the Canadian Services College, said the visit is part of an exchange plan which was started in 1958.

"We visit Colorado Springs one year and they visit us the next," he said. "The result is an interesting exchange of views between cadets and their instructors."

Burglars Glean $108 Cash In Two Thefts

Two Victoria businesses were hit by burglars overnight, for a total of $108.

A rear window at Carlton Cleaners, 1630 Hillside, was smashed with a rock.

Burglars forced a cash drawer and stole about $100, say city police.

At F. L. Bott Ltd., 1812 Cook Street, a window in the north side of the building was smashed—also with a rock—and the offices were ransacked.

Be the Belle of the Ball After Special Skin Care

By PENNY SAVER

Beauty may be only skin deep, but even so, this is no reason for allowing your skin to become dry and chaffed from blustery winds and occasional cold days.

However, if you have slipped up on your skin care this winter start now to improve the condition and regain a fine skin tone.

One well-known firm has produced a skin freshener, astringent and compensating cream to help you do this. What's more this regular $5.25 value is now selling at $3.75.

Product helps prevent and correct dry skin and contains polysaturates which are the natural substances in a normal, healthy skin. It does not contain hormones.

Freshener and astringent not only help to bring natural tone back into your skin but also help to prevent and clear up blemishes.

Following treatment with lotion and cream you can help your skin retain this fresh, clean feeling with the use of a new liquid makeup.

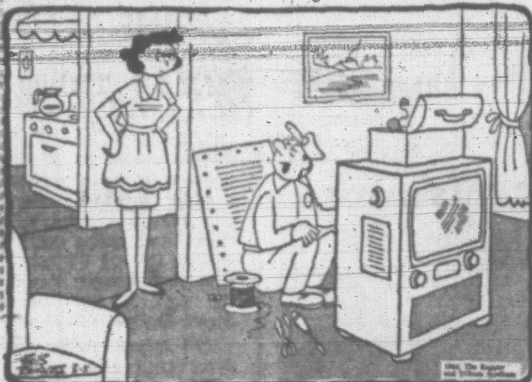

It contains a product called CEF 600 which helps the skin to retain its normal moisture without becoming oily. It comes in five shades—fragile light, tan, rose, fair lady, medium, mistic, pale honey and golden tan. Price is $2.25.

After shaking well, your smooth liquid over face and throat with your fingertips. It will not leave a line where it ends, or flake or streak.

If you have a big evening in the offing, call Penny at 382-3131 for name and location of shop which sells these products.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

You Can Give Yourself A Home Soapsuds Facial

A facial at a salon is wonderfully luxurious and relaxing. However you can learn to give yourself one at home.

A facial has several purposes: cleansing your skin, stirring up circulation, relaxing and smoothing out little lines. Many women find a soapsuds facial most valuable, especially those who have an oily complexion or blackheads. The woman with a normal epidermis will profit by the following procedure at least once a week.

Although effective, this facial is not expensive since you have all the ingredients in your own bathroom. A bowlful of hot water and your favorite soap are all you need. Pin your hair back and wear a makeup cape or pin a bath towel about your shoulders.

1. Work up a rich lather of suds and apply to your face. Place your fingertips together on your chin and gently stroke upward toward your cheekbones with a sweeping motion.

2. Dip your fingers in the suds again and stroke from the nose outward and upward toward the temples.

3. Stroke from the top of the nose to the hairline. Even better, work the soap into the skin using two fingers in a rotary motion as you move upward. This helps erase the line between the brows, if you have one.

4. This time use a stroking motion on the forehead, beginning between the eyes and sweeping up and over with an arc-like motion.

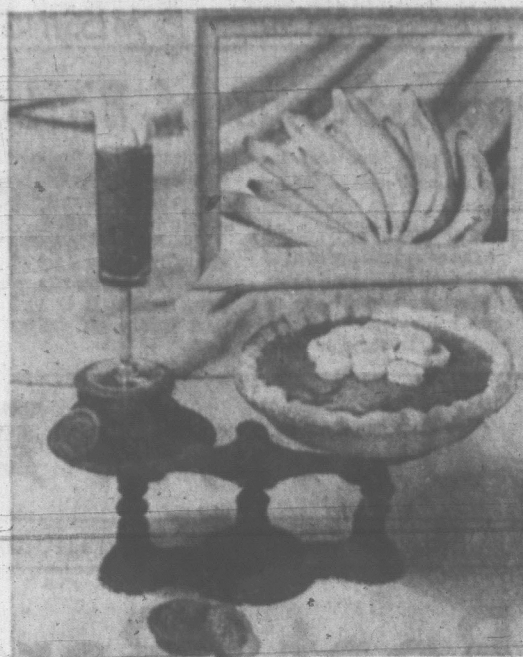

5. Pat gently around the eyes.

6. Let the lather remain on your face while you concentrate on your neckline. Take a handful of soapsuds in your right hand and stroke upward from the base of your neck to the left side of your chin. Do this several times. Next fill your left palm with suds and stroke from the base of your neck upward to the right side of your chin. Do this several times.

Let the suds dry somewhat and then rinse with clear warm water and a clean washcloth. Rinse thoroughly. Splash well with cold water. After drying you can use a skin freshener.

Watching your weight? You can still enjoy this luscious Banana Mocha Chiffon, but as a parfait, while the family eats pie!

Banana Mocha Chiffon Tips Scale Two Ways

Ready for spring dressing?

Whether it's just slipping into last year's frocks, or getting set for fashion's new whims, chances are there are a few inches here and there that just must go! And now's the time to begin!

Weight-watching doesn't have to be a hardship on you, or your family. Follow the normal nutritious meal plans, but learn to avoid those "extra" calories . . . and you know your own weaknesses, calorie-wise!

For many, desserts pose the weightiest problem. Pies, for instance. Would you settle for a luscious Banana Mocha Chiffon, but by-pass the crust? Serve yourself only the filling in your most handsome parfait or sherbet glass, and enjoy each delectable spoonful right along with your pie-eating brood. Calories? Only 80, well under the dessert allowance on most any diet.

BANANA MOCHA CHIFFON

One envelope (1) tablespoons unflavored gelatin, 1/4 cup cold water, 1 1/2 tablespoons instant coffee, 1/4 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon unsweetened cocoa, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract, 1 cup boiling water, 2 egg whites, 1 cup sliced bananas.

Soften gelatin in cold water. Add coffee, sugar, cocoa, salt and vanilla extract to gelatin. Add hot water and stir until dissolved. Chill mixture until thickened but not firm. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold into gelatin.

For parfait: Fold bananas into chiffon mixture and spoon into parfait glasses. Chill. Makes 6 servings at 80 calories per serving.

For pie: Pour one-half chiffon mixture into baked 9-inch pie shell. Chill for 10 minutes. Add a layer of sliced bananas. Pour remaining mixture over bananas; chill. Garnish with banana slices.

Clothes for a Lady

LONDON (Reuters)—A collection of clothes for the perfect English lady was shown here Monday by Charles Creed, last of the London couturiers to unveil his spring and summer collection.

He displayed the kind of elegant nostalgic clothes that the upper-class English woman loves to wear. His models were dated, not named, and the tone of the collection was bounded by the dateline 1919 to 1938.

Coats were narrow and sleekly tailored in speckled tweeds or textured wool. A typical two-piece was a collarless, cream topcoat in loosely woven wool and with long narrow sleeves, over a bloused tunic dress in black and white spotted silk tied at the neckline.

Most dresses were gently bloused above the waist, with an easy-fitting, knee-covering skirt.

Suit blouses echoed the tie-neck to soften the line of firmly-tailored jackets—often with nipped-in waists. Coffee and beige were put to clever use in a suit of wool-straw. The coffee-colored, fitted jacket had deep beige revers. Its narrow beige skirt was topped with a paisley-patterned, tie-necked silk blouse.

BE SMART—

This was our choice for a spring coat—a coat with fit and a soft tie at the neck. We chose it in pale lemon-colored wool, will wear it over all our navy fashions.

DEAR ABBY: We have been married forty-two years and are both in our sixties. My husband has always been a ladies' man, but the older he gets, the worse he gets. He has to have a woman doctor, a woman barber, and he will never let a man wait on him in a store if he can get a woman to do it. If a neighbor woman drops in to visit with me, even if he is busy outside, he comes right in and takes over, and I seldom get a word in. Also, when the most innocent remark is made, his eyes light up, he gets a dirty smirk on his face and he twists it around to make it sound smutty. I am at the end of my rope. Does this happen to all men when they get on in years?

DEAR ABBY: Today, while I was on the school bus, the bus driver hit a dog. All of the kids said, "about it, and all he said was, 'I am aware of that.' Abby, he didn't even stop to see if the dog was dead or not. Up until now I have always thought of this bus driver as a nice person. Now I don't want to look at him. None of us kids could do a thing.

Victoria Man Married In Mainland Church

Baskets of spring flowers, white satin shoes and carried, decorated South Burnaby United Church recently when Rev. H. M. Irwin heard marriage vows exchanged between Susan Shiley, Katherine Peters and David George Morris.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Peters, of Saskatoon; Mrs. A. G. Benning, 3240 Richmond Road, Victoria, and G. W. Morris, Burnaby. Edward Johnston, Kamloops, gave his sister-in-law in marriage.

The bride's street-length gown of peau de soie was styled with full skirt, scoop neckline and lily point sleeves and enhanced with lace appliques. Her four-tier silk illusion veil puffed to shoulder-length from a corset of seed pearls and sequins. She wore a single strand of pearls and Only attendant, Miss Marie Callon, Vancouver, wore a street-length gown of pink nylon over tulle with whimsie en tone and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Best man was Ted Fowler, New Westminster. At a reception which followed the toast was proposed by Ted Fowler. The lace-covered bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake, surrounded by rosebuds and tulle and flanked by tall white candles in silver holders.

For motoring to San Francisco, the bride donned a gold brocade two-piece suit, white pill box hat, black accessories, fur jacket and corsage of Talisman roses.

The newlyweds will make their home in Vancouver.

Claire Henderson, Rose Clarke, Helen Fedim and Dorothy Lock, left to right, will model fashions and millinery from Miss Frith's, at the "Gala Day" arranged by Victoria Chapter No. 17, Order of Eastern Star, on Saturday from 11:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. in the Union Centre Building, Quadra Street. Luncheon will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., and supper at 5:30 p.m. There will be a magic show at 1:30 p.m.; the fashion show at 3 p.m., also bingo and a hootenanny in the evening. Door prizes of Canadian Savings bonds will be drawn at 10 p.m.

SCHOLARSHIPS COME TO CITY

Young Victoria dancers, Sandra Begg and Maureen Lawson, were awarded two of four scholarships to a summer school in Montreal sponsored by Les Grands Ballets Canadiens, following a master class in Vancouver, this week. Instructor was Milenka Niderlona, prima ballerina of Les Grands Ballets Canadiens, which gave a performance in Vancouver, Monday evening. It was also attended by the ballet master and the general manager of the company. More than 40 young dancers attended the class, arranged by Vancouver Ballet Company. Victoria award winners are both pupils of Wynne Shaw.

After a month's honeymoon in California, Mr. and Mrs. John Alan George Miller will make their home in Vancouver. Canon F. C. Vaughan-Birch, a friend of the groom's family, officiated at the ceremony in Holy Trinity Church, Patricia Bay, which united Angela Morley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Morley, 2550 Beaufort Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Miller of Vancouver.

Pink gladioli and stocks and pink and white carnations decorated the church for the occasion. Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" was played during signing of the register. Mr. Morley gave his daughter in marriage. Her short-length gown of white peau de soie was styled with a slightly belled skirt and topped with a short jacket that had long sleeves and delicate lace panels that floated from shoulders to hemline. The bouffant veil misted from a coronet of pearls. Pink carnations and freesia were in the bouquet.

Miss Barbara J. Starck was maid of honor in a short-length gown of orchid pink peau de soie, matching headdress and toning shoes. Bridesmaid, Miss Judy Milligan wore a similar ensemble in pale green organza. Both carried colonial bouquets of white carnations. James Robertson, Vancouver, was best man and ushering guests were George Miller and Christopher Morley, the principals' brothers.

J. K. Quayle proposed the toast to the bride's happiness at a reception in the Patricia Room of the Sidney Travelodge. The head table was set with an exquisite crocheted cloth and decorated with a three-tier wedding cake, flanked by white candles and deep pink camellias.

As her going-away outfit, the bride chose a cream and beige suit, turquoise accessories and fur jacket.

Smorgasbord Assists Work Of Auxiliary

Slimming diets were tossed out the window on Wednesday when crowds attending a smorgasbord luncheon prepared by the women's auxiliary to the Cerebral Palsy Association, circled a table loaded with a variety of delectable hot and cold dishes, arranged in a colorful display.

A sum of $225 was realized and will be used to assist in work with 68 handicapped children at the clinic.

All foods served were prepared and cooked by the 24 members of the auxiliary and members of the Mothers Group of the association.

Receiving those who attended were the auxiliary president, Mrs. G. A. Spring, and the luncheon convener, Mrs. L. F. Dunn. Assisting at the tables were Mrs. F. S. George, Mrs. R. W. Southwell, Mrs. W. Pistell, Mrs. H. A. Rogers, Mrs. J. W. Pomeroy, Mrs. D. Chorlton, Mrs. A. E. Pistell, Mrs. P. N. Boorer, Mrs. C. Wallace, Mrs. A. R. Shields, Mrs. A. Broadfoot, Mrs. F. D. Pomeroy, Mrs. D. Crook and Mrs. S. Munro. Mrs. D. G. McKenzie was in charge of door tickets.

MONTREAL, March 5th—In just ten months we'll all be Christmas Shopping! That's why I suggest it's a good idea—now—to open a Special Christmas Savings Account at your local branch of the BANK OF MONTREAL. Then, when Christmas comes, buying gifts will be a genuine pleasure... and no after-Christmas bills to worry about. Relieved of this nagging worry, your mood will match the merry sound of jingle bells. Do open a separate Christmas Savings Account at "My Bank". It will guarantee that ten months from now you'll enjoy the happiest Yuletide ever. Why not drop in at your neighbourhood B of M branch tomorrow?

BRAND NEW ON THE MARKET—and a bright idea, too—is a gentle new laxative for children. FEEN-A-MINT CHILDREN'S MINT Laxative comes in attractive pink pastille form, can be chewed or sucked. Children's Mint Laxative has been developed by Pharmaco (Canada) Ltd., the makers of the well-known Feen-a-Mint. If your tykes need a laxative now and then, and they rebel against ordinary forms, I suggest you try this Feen-a-Mint Children's Mint Laxative. It is gentle, predictable... and tastes good! Available at your neighbourhood drug store.

ANY COLOR... SO LONG AS IT'S RED! An old Irish lady I once knew never missed saying this to dress shop assistants—after they were out of ear-shot! Well, you're not out of ear-shot, and it is a good way to remind you, CN'S RED DAYS ARE BARGAIN DAYS!

CN DAYS! Canadian National's Red Bargain Days offer you tremendous travel savings and luxury. On both The Super Continental and Ocean Limited, you and your family are absolutely pampered! On Red Bargain days, save lots of money and have a fun trip. Don't just travel. Go CN... The Way of the Worry Free!

LIKE SO MANY PEOPLE, I insist on making cereal part of my breakfast. It's light and provides necessary food energy. Occasionally, however, I want a change from the puffed, flaked and sugared cereals which children so dearly enjoy. When that happens, I reach for POST GRAPE-NUTS. Easy-to-eat Grape-Nuts is a wheat cereal—concentrated—with food energy in every spoonful. A rich, crunchy, nut-sweet flavour that's so different. Try it. You'll agree—a change to Grape-Nuts is a welcome change. Start your day a little bit better with a cereal fresh from Post. GRAPE-NUTS!

BELIEVE IT OR NOT, there is a vegetable original all by itself. It's LIBBY'S SAUERKRAUT, special even without a thing added. Libby's Sauerkraut is crisp white cabbage made mellow and slightly tart, fast with vinegar and spices. And team up Libby's Sauerkraut with sausage or any cold meat and you have a hearty sandwich out of this world. Or serve Libby's Sauerkraut hot with meat. When you do serve it hot, be sure to just warm it through. That way you save all its healthy goodness and flavour. Treat your family to a Libby's Sauerkraut treat one day this week. By the way it's a real bargain. For your FREE Sauerkraut recipe folder, write: Sauerkraut Recipes, Dept. CV-3, Libby, McNeill & Libby of Canada, Limited, 330 Richmond Street, Chatham, Ontario.

CLUBWOMEN'S NEWS

Natural Dyes—The Victoria Hand Weavers' Guild heard a recorded talk on natural dyes by Mrs. M. Hammond at recent meeting. It described use of lichens, cedar and arbutus bark, onion skin, flower heads, roots and grasses. Recording was played by Mrs. G. Singleton and a résumé of Mrs. Hammond's work given by Mrs. H. E. Hodson. Several textiles, woven by Mrs. Hammond, were on display. Mrs. S. Pickles reported on work with the handicapped at the Esquimalt centre, as well as in private homes. Mrs. W. F. U. Copeman outlined plans for exhibition, to be held in June.

Congress Report—Mrs. Ken McAllister reported on the 10th international congress of home economics held in Paris last summer, at meeting of the Victoria Home Economics and Dietetic Association held recently. She accompanied her talk with fine color slides. Eighteen hundred delegates representing 47 countries attended the congress. Mrs. McAllister said. Theme was "Home Economics Education to Meet Changing World Conditions and Needs."

Donation—Money was voted to the Save the Children Fund for Korea at recent meeting of the Victoria Jaycee-ettes at which Mrs. Reg Owens presided. Mrs. Doug Webb announced plans for fashion show, being organized with the Greater Victoria School Board and to be held at the Oak Bay Junior High School, March 19. A "bring and buy" auction rounded out the evening.

'TORIES SUBORDINATE U.K. NAVAL TRADITION'

LONDON (UPI)—Opposition Labor Party leader Harold Wilson charged Wednesday the Conservative government had "subordinated" the role of Britain's navy to spend money on an outmoded nuclear deterrent.

Wilson told a news conference shortly after returning from a five-day visit to Canada and the United States that the British navy has a "great tradition and expertise" and should be properly utilized. "Our naval tradition has been subordinated to spend money on a nuclear effort," Wilson charged.

DR. LOTTA REPORTS

Crop Failure Adds To Korean Misery

Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, executive director of the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, returned to Victoria from Korea downhearted by the hunger and misery, but gladdened by the charitable organizations now working within the country.

"It was the worst year I have seen in many years," she said, as she described feeding stations at which USC milk was the only food available.

The effect of last year's crop failure is still being felt, tuberculosis is spreading and the rate of abandoned babies is alarming.

The $12,000 donated by Victoria last year has mostly gone into emergency aid," said Dr. Hitschmanova.

But what encouraged Dr. Hitschmanova most is the movement underway by Koreans to help their own indigent people.

"There are more women's organizations, charitable groups and even talk of a community chest," said Dr. Hitschmanova. This is their way of saying thanks for the aid they received in the past.

BENCH TERRACING

Another program now under way, sponsored by the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations, the U.S. government, voluntary agencies and the Korean government is bench terracing for uplands development.

Only one-fifth of the land is arable at present. Under the new development another 1,000,000 acres will be reclaimed. A second reclamation project is going on in tidal regions.

The Korean government is trying to open up markets for Korean-made merchandise and many small businesses are starting up with money borrowed from the USC fund.

Everywhere Dr. Hitschmanova visited feeding stations, clothing stations and schools—men, women and children kept saying "thank you" for Canadian help.

Racial Bias Upheld

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—The House of Commons Tuesday rejected, 27-13, an anti-racial discrimination bill. The Labor party's bill would have made it an offence to discriminate on the grounds of color, race or religion or to incite publicly contempt or hatred for any person because of color, race or religion.

Russia Reaps U.S. Harvest From Own Seed

WALTON, Kan. (AP)—A century ago it was Russia that sent wheat to the United States. To a large degree that traffic was responsible for the development of the great plains wheat belt from whose gigantic surpluses will come wheat now being sold to a grain-short Russia.

The Russian wheat that first made its appearance in Kansas sometime around 1870 was the famed Turkey Red, brought as seed by German-speaking Russian Mennonites.

Kansas State University researchers report these seeds were carefully hand-selected by Mennonite children when their parents began to immigrate to the U.S. from the Crimea. Wheat was already being grown in Kansas—it started before 1840—but the Russian Turkey Red proved better adapted to the area, withstanding both summer drought and winter kill.

Some 10 years after the Mennonites brought in the first seed of this new strain, a central Kansas miller imported several thousand bushels direct from the Crimea and its cultivation on a large scale was under way.

By 1883 several varieties, all named Turkey, were being grown and in 1898 the Russian type was recognized by Kansas State Agriculture College as "our standard hard wheat." In that year the state produced 68,700,000 bushels of wheat and its continuing reputation as the largest wheat-producing state was well established.

The popularity of Turkey Red began to decline after 1900 as newer and better varieties of winter wheat were developed. Now it is recommended only in the Texas high plains and eastern New Mexico.

The Turkey Red wheat is still regarded, however, as having outstanding qualities for bread making and gives a comparatively fair yield. Its drawbacks are low test weight, weak straw, lateness of maturing and susceptibility to disease and insect damage.

Truckers Alarmed Over Exemption For B.C. Hydro

Commercial truckers said Tuesday an act now before the legislature "contains an alarming provision" that would exempt the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority from the jurisdiction of all provincial statutes.

The B.C. Automotive Transport Association said the exemption would include the Motor Carrier Act and could be used to upset a recent ruling of the B.C. Public Utilities Commission.

The commission recently dismissed an application by Pacific Stage Lines, a Hydro subsidiary, to start a door-to-door pickup and delivery service in Vancouver and in the Fraser Valley in competition with private truckers.

The association said the legislation, Bill 14, deals primarily with the Hydro's power operations. It had passed second reading, approval in principle.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—It's Steve Lawrence's voice against the drama critics in the latest battle of B'way.

The critics usually win. But Steve has the disc jockeys, the song pluggers and record-promoters, most of the columnists, and an enormous personal following battling for him. It's possible that "What Makes Sammy Run?" will do just that. . . . KUN!

Take it from the B.W. and me, Steve Lawrence became a figure of importance on the B'way stage in this musical. . . . but as playwright Budd Schulberg was saying after reading the sour notices. . . .

"I doubt that serious writers will be interested in writing musicals after these reviews. I guess they want us to go back to musicals like 'Hill the Deck.' Ella Kazan was there and said this was the only musical he'd seen recently which interested him. . . . Still Steve and his wife Eydie Gorme (who isn't in the show) couldn't help being stung by one review which didn't even mention Steve.

Those who loved the show gave great credit to Abe Burrows for play-doctoring, as one friend said, "He burrows from within."

The huge party at the N.Y. Hilton's Old Bourbon House for "What Makes Sammy Run?" cost the producers $5,000 to $7,000 for about 700 guests. Producer Joe Cates invited about 300 but forgot that some tree-loaders bring 20 guests. . . . Congressman John Lindsay says he's against President Johnson turning down the lights in the White House: "There's enough groping around there as it is." Don Porter, star in the new

R'way hit, "Any Wednesday," asked a Times Sq. saloon-keeper why he fired his Indian bartender. "Hadda do it," replied the saloonist. "He started charging $34 for a Manhattan."

They walked along B'way, looking like a very tall mother and her 12-year-old son. Actually, they were 6-foot-3 Sharon Foust, a model originally from Altoona, Pa., and her fiancé, 4-foot-9 Barry Layne, from Boston and Providence, a drummer at Charlie Bates' Saloon at 1487 1st Ave. Sharon, with her high heels, is about two feet taller than her sweetheart who, incidentally, has a semi-Beatle haircut besides.

"We both had complexes about our size — and that drew us together," said Sharon. They've been engaged since Thanksgiving.

bra Streisand is expecting, says he'll give $1,000 to charity if he's wrong. . . .

Peter Sellers is spending part of his honeymoon at the Beverly Hills Hotel — alone; he's movie-making there; his bride's working in London. . . . Tony Martin and Cyd Charisse, who'll open the Concord Hotel's summer season, are asking 400Gs a week for their act. . . . New French fad for gals: Transparent blouses, with nothing underneath except the girl.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Larry Mathews claims the walls in his apartment are so thin that he asked his wife a question — and got four answers.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: A local fellow at Rosoff's said he'd given up smoking, but had to go back to the habit — he was hooked on the coupons.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: Dorothy Parker, when asked to name the two most beautiful words in the English language, answered, "Check enclosed."

EARL'S FEELS: It's Alan Cates' time. "Peter, Paul and Mary have made more money than any trio since Adam-Clayton Powell."

We've heard the Beatles are worth a lot of money, and that's easy to understand; for instance, look how much they've saved on haircuts. That's earl, brother.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to David Black, 11, Winslow, Ariz., for his question:

What Use Is an Elephant's Trunk?

The elephant needs his wonderful trunk to make a living and there is no end to the amazing things he can do with it. Besides, it is unique — there is nothing else like it in the entire animal kingdom. His trunk made it possible for him to become the biggest land animal in the history of the world.

The trunk of the biggest bull elephant is eight feet long. It has no bones, but experts tell us that it is controlled by 40,000 different muscles — more or less. He uses it as a hand and a mighty arm. He can trumpet through it and use it to take a shower. And it is

Likes Mud and Dust Baths

When he reaches a water hole, he does not have to stoop down to take a drink. He uses his trunk as a siphon to suck up the water and squirt it into his mouth. Jumbo is fond of mud baths and dust baths. He uses his trunk to suck up mud, dust or water and shower them over his big body.

And the mighty trunk is strong — strong enough to hoist a log weighing a ton or lift and hurl a man a distance of 40 feet. Day and night it works as a smelling organ. As he walks through the jungle, the great trunk swings this way and that, testing the ground. From time to time he lifts it to sniff the wind and scent the presence of friends or enemies.

The elephant is an intelligent animal, and as a rule he is very affectionate with his friends and relatives. He often uses his amazing trunk to show his affection. Parent elephants stroke and caress each other with their trunks. A mother elephant uses her trunk to cuddle and pet her baby. She often uses it as a loving arm one of the most sensitive noses in all the world.

Jumbo's amazing trunk is an extension of his nose and upper lip. It is a prehensile, or grasping, appendage, and he can move it in every direction with the greatest of ease. The outer side is covered with tough, elephant-type skin, but the under side is quite delicate and sensitive.

The trunk is long enough to reach the ground, and he uses its tip to grasp bunches of grass and other low-growing greenery. It is long enough to reach up to the branches of tall trees and grab the leafy foliage. It is supple enough to curl under and stuff his food into his monstrous mouth.

To lift her little darling right off the ground. . . .

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book globe to Nicky Kyranakis, age nine, of Fairfield, Conn., for his question: How deep does the frost go into the ground?

On a frosty morning, the ground seems to be frozen as hard as iron. You might think that the frost reaches all the way down to the opposite side of the globe. But, of course, it never does. After months of wintry weather, the frost may reach down two feet, three feet or maybe more. But in our part of the world, the frozen ground melts after a few days of warm spring weather.

In the chilly polar regions of the world, the frost reaches much deeper into the ground. Around the Arctic Ocean, the land is frozen many feet below the surface. In the spring, the top two or three feet thaw and turn into marshy swamps. But below this, the ground is frozen solid all through the year.

TEEN-AGE CANADA

Deadlines Nearing For Science Fairs

By JACK HUTTON
Eighteen-year-old Beverly Davies was intrigued one year ago by ideas she saw in her father's art studio at Belleville, Ont., intrigued enough to build her own electric test kit.

Seventeen-year-old Andrew Hamilton of Winnipeg, Man., was working about that same time on an exhibit to show several aspects of the evolution of butterflies.

The two had never met before. But their ideas won them a trip last summer to the International Youth Science Forum in London, England.

The annual search is on again for two more talented young Canadians to represent us in the overseas project sponsored by Prince Philip. It's "science fair" time across Canada.

'Born' In Winnipeg

The science fair movement which owes its birth to Winnipeg, didn't exist in Canada several years ago. Today regional science fairs are discovering an unbelievable number of young Canadians interested in everything from the heat of fusion, bacteria in the air, exploring the brain of a fish to anything else you can name.

I talked this week with P. C. LeSclieur, the Ottawa-based secretary and co-ordinator of the Canadian Science Fairs Council, who is looking forward to the third national science fair April 24 and 25 at the University of Montreal.

"We're looking forward with enthusiasm to the results of our 24 regional fairs," he said. "Each year many applicants amaze us with the depth of their knowledge."

Check Entry Rules

Just a few of the fair dates: Victoria, B.C., March 28 to April 4; Edmonton, Alta., April 11; Winnipeg, Man., April 2 and 3; St. Catharines, Ont., April 2, 3, 4; Metro Toronto, March 30 to April 4; North Bay, Ont., March 20; Sherbrooke, Que., April 7.

How do you fit into the picture? Is it still possible for any secondary-school student (Grade 9 is the minimum) to apply for the judging and the eventual awards?

The deadline for entries is approaching quickly. Your local science teacher is the best guide. But if your area has no science fair, you have a slim chance of being accepted by the special admission committee.

Mr. LeSclieur and others connected with science fairs hope no student will figure that only senior students can win the prizes. Carol Blane, a Grade 9 student from Verdun, Que., was top girl in 1961.

Science Fiction

How are the exhibits judged?

Each project should show "original research, or be a demonstration of a biological, chemical, physical, mathematical or technical principle, a laboratory of other procedure, an industrial development or an orderly collection of anything in the broad concept of pure or applied science."

Idea demonstrated at last year's national science fair read like a page from science fiction — one exhibit puzzling over why lobsters turn from green to red when boiled, and another which speculated on masses in space.

I'll admit right now I've had to ask the author of each science fair exhibit I've seen what it was all about. And the same applies to most spectators.

The 1964 version of our annual science fair sweepstakes is about to get under way. Good luck if you're an exhibitor. The rest of us will watch with excitement from the sidelines.

Christmas Gift

Every so often a columnist receives a letter which makes everything seem worth while. I feel that way about a letter from Mrs. J. N. of Halifax, N.S., who says her two sons would be embarrassed if she identified her last name.

"Just before Christmas," she writes, "you wrote a column suggesting that building a bird feeder station would be a good Christmas present and might also be the beginning of an interesting hobby."

"I'm writing to tell you how that one story affected our family. I read it with interest but had forgotten all about it until Christmas morning when my two sons, 11 and 14 years old, gave me one they'd built with your plans."

"It was wobbly and crude-looking, but that hasn't bothered either the birds or us. We put it up in the backyard where we can see it at breakfast, and I can't count the hours of enjoyment we've had watching our visitors."

"The boys were very upset when a red cardinal didn't show up for days after a cold spell, and we all celebrated when he returned safe and well. We've even given names to the sparrows."

"Your idea was one of those fine projects that involve everyone in a family, giving us a chance to become closer through sharing an interest. So here's one mother thanking you."

AID PLEDGED FOR CLEAN-UP

Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce has agreed to assist the City of Victoria in its clean-up, paint-up, campaign.

The Jaycees will later be assigned an area of the downtown business district to canvass and persuade merchants to consult the city planning office for technical assistance in brightening up their storefronts.

LITTLE FURRY THINGS MULTIPLY LIKE BEATLES

Take Cover—the Ookpik Invasion Is Coming

By ROBERT RICE

OTTAWA (CP)—The Ookpik is coming—thousands of them. Born in the land of the Eskimo, the little fuzzy Arctic owl will be made on a mass production basis in Toronto and Montreal under a deal signed Wednesday between two Canadian manufacturers and the Fort Chimo Eskimo Co-operative.

To get the rights to make

Ookpik, the two manufacturers agreed to pay 10 per cent of their selling price on each Ookpik to the co-operative.

Government officials say the agreement could mean more than $25,000 in royalties this year for the Eskimos in the co-operative.

The original Ookpik was a sealskin creation—fuzzy and goggle-eyed with flat feet. It caught the fancy of businessmen at a Canadian trade fair at Philadelphia last year and producers began to mount.

The Eskimo co-operative, unable to produce the owl in massive quantities, agreed to let commercial firms make them under license.

Under the agreement signed here Wednesday, Canadian Handicrafts and Fur of Montreal received the right to produce Ookpik in fur, while Re-

Price of the Ookpiks will range from $2 to $12.

The two manufacturers hope to sell at least 100,000 Ookpiks—from plush, white Ookpiks with yellow bills and yellow flappers to dainty, little possum Ookpiks smaller than a man's thumb.

Northern Affairs Minister Laing said businessmen and industrialists have many more ideas for using the Ookpik idea—as a TV cartoon series, comic books, games, jewelry, party favors, books, children's clothing, ornaments and other knick-knacks.

Noting that the federal government has copyrighted the Ookpik design, he warned that unauthorized manufacturers will be "openly discouraged."

END OF B.C. OVERTIME EQUALS 91,000 JOBS

Elimination of overtime could create 91,000 new jobs in Canada, an MLA said Wednesday.

Rae Eddie (NDP—New Westminster) based his calculation on a statement by U.S. Labor Secretary Wirtz that overtime cuts up 919,000 jobs in the U.S.

If overtime pay were double time, instead of time and a half, employers would be discouraged from making people work long hours, Mr. Eddie said.

Debate on labor department estimates started Wednesday evening, and will continue today.

In Our HOUSE

By Arthur Mayse

The omen-freighted Ides of March whooped down upon us Wednesday, a fact which, the Legislative Assembly's unthreatened Caesar was quick to note.

"I am sure," said Premier Bennett in full smile, "that no difficulty will arise."

His prediction was mostly right. Although the winds blew fresh and free inside the House as well as out, the squalls were few and brief.

Perhaps because they were to dine later as guests of premier and cabinet, members were painstakingly cooperative. This spirit was carried to a startling extreme when David Barrett (NDP—Dewdney) asked leave to introduce a bill and got a unanimous 'Aye' before he could announce its title.

A bill to amend the Training Schools Act: British Columbia's underdogs have no better friend than this sturdy, youngish Opposition member who in private life works with the John Howard Society for the rehabilitation of ex-convicts.)

Pitch-Penny Game

So on we went like a House afire for full 20 minutes, legislators playing brisk pitch-penny with education millions, and pack-in-the-box Leo Nimsick (NDP—Cranbrook) never once popping up to harangue the government side.

Then over the horizon a squall came booming. With the assent of members, Chairman William Speare reopened a vote passed while John Squire was absent, so that the Alberta NDP could have his say.

What Mr. Squire wanted was a change in the Public Schools Act which would permit practicing clergymen to double as teachers.

"A denial of a fundamental right," asserted Mr. Squire, and not in line with the policies of Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec.

Scant Impression

This roll call of the provinces made scant impression on our legislature. The general feeling was that church should remain separate from state, a belief in which Tony Gargrave (NDP, Mackenzie) concurred. "I speak as an individual," said Mr. Gargrave, and speaking as an individual, proceeded to support the government stand against preacher-school teachers.

Minor division of this sort within a party isn't uncommon. Our five Liberals, for instance, are not of one mind about the government proposal to expand industry's toehold in our Class A, or wilderness parks.

Gallant But Futile

Liberal Alan Macfarlane of Oak Bay made a gallant, but I fear futile pitch for the reintroduction of grade 12 supplemental examinations.

Sacred Dan Campbell flew into a speech which bore no apparent relation to the vote, drawing a polite snarl from Burnaby's NDP Gordon Dowling.

Legislators then voted public libraries their $10 difference between advances and revenues; banded off the million-dollar-plus department total; and double-clutched smoothly from education to labor, Mr. Peterson's other portfolio.

Then amiably off—NDP, Sacred and Liberal—to join good host Bennett in a toast to the Queen.

Drunk, I sorrowfully add, in beautiful British Columbia water.

Incidentally don't the Ides of March come on the 15th of the month?

BRONZE SCULPTURE by Victoria's Elsa Mayhew—or other of her works—will represent Canada at Venice biennial world exhibition of contemporary art. Weighing 1,900 pounds, it was cast in an Oregon foundry while Mrs. Mayhew was teaching at the university there. Looking over giant sculpture at Victoria Art Gallery, is Times critic Moncrieff Williamson who will write about it in Saturday's paper.

Cyprus Report Friday by Mike

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister Pearson said today he expects to make a full report to the Commons Friday on Canada's proposed role in the international peace-keeping force for Cyprus.

The prime minister said he read to cabinet this morning a report on talks between United Nations Secretary-General Thant and Canadian UN Ambassador Paul Tremblay. Pearson said he might present an interim report to the Commons this afternoon.

Canadian defence officials said earlier everything is ready if Canada decides to contribute to the Cyprus force.

Defence Minister Hellyer met with the three chiefs of staff today. A spokesman said that so far no specific requests had been received by the department.

"We expect that an advance party could be in Cyprus within 24 hours of the order," he said, explaining that requirements for Does UN Take Canada's Aid for Granted?

OTTAWA (CP)—Is the United Nations taking Canada's peace-keeping efforts for granted? UN Secretary-General U Thant on Tuesday announced a two-months extension of the UN observer mission in Yemen, which is composed almost entirely of Canadians.

Officials here said today there has been no formal request from the UN for continuation of Canadian participation. The mission's job was to have been completed Wednesday after another of several two-months extensions going back to last summer.

The repeated renewal of the UN mission in Yemen, where Egypt and Saudi Arabia have been supporting opposing sides in a civil war which began in 1962, is one of the factors which is giving the Canadian government pause before agreeing to Canadian participation in a UN force for Cyprus. The UN wants a Canadian contingent of about 1,000 men.

Gov't Bows Out Of Mental Care

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

A new plan to shift mental health care from the B.C. government to community organizations was unveiled Wednesday by Health Minister Eric Martin.

Mental Costs Feared

Provincial government aid to hospital outpatient service must be increased for localized mental health treatment, city manager Dennis Young believes.

In a statement on legislation introduced Wednesday that would place more mental health services within communities, Mr. Young dispelled some apprehension that ratepayers would be charged more in order to provide the new services.

"There is no indication that local governments are being encouraged to take on more responsibility," Mr. Young said.

40-YEAR TREND

He noted that improved medical philosophy and treatment of mental health cases in the last 40 years has stressed less institutional type care.

The controversial Ross report on mental health in B.C., tabled after much delay in 1962, recommends community treatment facilities for most mental cases, Mr. Young observed.

It may be necessary to raise some of the funds for such expansion of facilities by public subscription, but the burden will not fall on the homeowner, he said.

The provincial government intends to co-operate with private organizations.

Winds Hit 110 MPH In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—A brief but furious windstorm flew across part of Montreal Island today, doing heavy damage and causing some minor injuries.

The winds hit 110 miles an hour, the highest ever recorded here.

Power and telephone poles and trees were down, highways were blocked, roofs and street signs were blown away and airplanes at two airports damaged.

Summer cottages by the dozen were wrecked or damaged.

TORONTO (CP)—Winds gusting to 75 miles an hour sent a factory wall crashing down on five men today in suburban Weston. Two were reported seriously injured.

TORONTO (CP)—A sudden blizzard today dumped up to 11 inches of snow in northern Ontario, closing roads and schools and plunging temperatures below zero.

RUBY QUOTED

'Intended To Shoot 3 Times'

DALLAS (AP)—A police officer today quoted Jack Ruby as saying within minutes after he shot Lee Harvey Oswald that "I intended to shoot him three times."

Officer D. R. Archer testified at a 52-year-old Ruby's trial on a murder charge that the defendant approached Oswald—gun in hand—in the basement of Dallas police headquarters Nov. 24 last. Ruby, Archer said, was muttering unintelligible phrases but did call the accused presidential assassin a "son of a bitch."

Three to five minutes later, Archer testified, when he was inside the jail with Ruby, he told the defendant: "I think you killed him."

"He said," Archer added, "I intended to shoot him three times."

Ruby, on trial for his life, is pleading temporary insanity. The defence claims Ruby was in a mental blackout when he shot Oswald and didn't know what he was doing.

DID NOT HEAR HIM

Police Officer L. C. Graves, walking alongside Oswald when Ruby shot him, said he did not hear Ruby say he hoped Oswald died.

The other officer alongside Oswald, J. R. Leavelle, testified Wednesday that Ruby said he hoped Oswald would die.

"Did you hear Leavelle say to Oswald, 'I hope someone shoots you, you son of a bitch?'" asked Melvin Belli, chief defence counsel for Ruby.

Graves said he did not.

"Did you hear him say someone shoots you, I hope they shoot as straight as you do," Belli asked.

Belli denied this too.

Furore Mounts Over Royal Visit

MONTREAL (CP)—Voices in Quebec continue to be raised in opposition to the Queen's scheduled visit to Quebec City in October.

Guy Pouliot, leader of the Separatist Rassemblement pour l'Indépendance Nationale, told English-speaking university students in Montreal Wednesday that "the Queen could very well be the victim of aggression when she comes here."

This is not a threat or warning, but just my opinion as a private citizen. The Sir George Williams University students shouted at him to "speak English" and several of them threw down and trampled on a Quebec Fleur-de-Lys flag after the speech.

Later Wednesday, le Rassemblement announced it had called Queen Elizabeth that incidents during her visit would be "unfortunate but inevitable." The Queen is scheduled to visit Charlottetown and Quebec City next October to take part in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of confederation in 1867.

The cable said the Queen's visit is being used by Ottawa "for political propaganda."

OPPOSE TRIP

"We are fighting this colonialist policy in which you are made to play a role unworthy of your rank. We beg you to believe that if we oppose your trip to Quebec, it is not that we are against your person but against a Confederation which has run its course."

"We regret in advance the unfortunate but inevitable incidents which could occur during your stay, but they are inevitable because we will never admit that the founding of a colonialist regime that we do not recognize is being celebrated in the heart of our country."

"In other times, when Quebec is independent, we will be pleased to reconsider the usefulness of such a visit to Quebec and to transmit to you, if the occasion arises, the homage of our people."

On Tuesday night, Montreal journalist Yvon Turcotte said on the CBC television show Viewpoint that Queen Elizabeth would not be welcome in Quebec.

The statement caused one member of Parliament to protest in the Commons Wednesday.

DENOUNCES BROADCAST

Nicholas Mandziuk (PC—Marquette) denounced the broadcast for the "outrageous and disloyal utterances" he said it had contained.

He demanded that the government take immediate steps to "prevent the further wanton expression" of such views over the CBC.

The furore over the Queen's visit was started by Laval University students. Then in Toronto Feb. 24 Marcel Chaput, leader of the defunct Quebec Republican Party, a separatist group, said some Quebecers are ready to let the Queen know

Peace Move by U.S. 'Opens Up' Reactor

GENEVA (AP)—The United States announced today it will place one of its largest nuclear power reactors under international inspection in the hope that other countries—particularly the Soviet Union—will follow suit.

U.S. delegate Adrian S. Fisher told the 17-nation disarmament conference the reactor plant at Rowe, Mass., is to be placed under inspection of the International Atomic Energy Agency.

Fisher said the United States hopes this step will encourage the Soviet Union and other countries to join in a world-wide system to prevent the misuse of civil reactors for clandestine production of nuclear weapons.

Fisher stressed the IAEA will be invited to undertake the permanent inspection of the reactor, "whether or not other states reciprocate." But if they do reciprocate, he added, it would be "one of the most significant developments of this conference."

Fisher said three smaller American reactors, two at Brookhaven, N.Y., and one at Piqua, Ohio, are already under IAEA inspection to help the agency develop its procedure for safeguarding the peaceful uses of atomic energy.

The privately owned reactor at Rowe is the largest to come under IAEA surveillance. It is rated at a power level of 600,000 thermal kilowatts.

STUDENTS FASTING FOR FUNDS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Seven University of B.C. students today entered the fourth day of a publicity fast aimed at raising $1,100 to help build a school at Piliwke in the British African protectorate of Bechuanaland.

Bechuanaland is a small country between Southern Rhodesia and South Africa. The seven, led by Bruce Grey, a fourth-year arts student, said they are tired, irritable, physically weak but not hungry. They are eating only vitamin pills.

Another aim of the fast is to draw attention to the plight of starving millions in underdeveloped countries and to raise funds for the school building project sponsored by the student's council. Their fast ends Saturday.

OL' VIC SAYS:
If them thugs kin scare th' Queen out o' Quebec, it c'd be th' Prime Minister next.

But one reason they don't like her is 'cuz she speaks better French than they do.

Some o' th' provincial gov't's stuff ain't so hot, but we're gittin' a higher class o' promises.

Scattered reports from various U.S. areas indicate that the 31-cent price for copper is being breached in the face of a shortage of supply.

American users of the red metal took about 140,000 tons during January and whittled the stocks of the primary producers down to about half a month's supply. For the first time since the 31-cent price was established, buyers were paying a premium for copper—as much as two cents a pound—and there was a feeling that the African producers might not be able to keep the lid on much longer even with heavily increased production.

The copper price has been held for nearly three years, even though there have been many periods in that time when the market would not ordinarily have supported the price.

The African producers have managed the market by selling or withholding copper as the situation warranted. Now that the pressure is on to boost the price, mainly for the benefit of U.S. and Canadian producers, the Africans are holding back as much as they can on the grounds that rising prices would invite competition from other materials.

North American producers are not so inclined to accept the argument.

However, in the metal trades, it is felt that zinc, which has profited from a number of price advances in recent months is vulnerable to competition. In the die-casting field, one of the most lucrative markets for zinc, aluminum is always a threat. Die casters have gone from zinc to aluminum several times when price has been a factor.

Cariboo Gold Quartz Mining Co. Ltd. plans to increase production at its Wells mine from 1,500 to 1,800 ounces a month.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Westcoast Shares In Big Turnover

Special-sized transaction of 50,000 shares at $16.55 a share of Westcoast Transmission Co. Ltd. was traded on the Toronto stock exchange at the opening today.

The transaction represents a total value of $827,500. The exchange did not divulge the buyer or the seller.

At 2 p.m. the stock had traded $1,060 shares at $16.50. Westcoast reached a high for 1964 of $18.50 and a low of $15.50.

The company owns and operates a 680-natural gas pipeline extending from Bonanza, Alta., to Huntington, B.C. on the international border.

AT TORONTO there was no definite trend. BA Oil was up one point to 30 1/2. Canadian Tire A & C and Canadian Collieries and Price Brothers 1/4 each among industrial gainers.

UNUSUAL STOCK DEAL

TORONTO (CP)—Shares of Arthritis Research Ltd. went on sale among Ontario businessmen Wednesday, one of the most unusual stock deals in history.

The Ontario division of the Canadian Arthritis Society received permission from the Ontario Securities Commission to establish the corporation with its sights set at raising $500,000 for arthritis research, said Robert F. Clark, president of the division.

Sharp Increase In Ore Shipments

OTTAWA (CP)—A sharp increase in iron ore shipments last year from new mines in Labrador contributed to a 9.5 per cent rise in 1963 shipments from all Canadian iron mines.

Total shipments rose to 30,042,093 tons from 27,438,624 in 1962, the bureau of statistics reported.

Export shipments rose 9 per cent to 26,591,182 tons and domestic shipments climbed 13.5 per cent to 3,450,911.

Aluminum Price Conflict

NEW YORK (AP)—Aluminum Co. of America and Canada's Aluminum Ltd. stood pitted to-day in a sharp price conflict. They clashed as part of a price confusion that left the market-placed with five different combinations of price schedules for simple, basic aluminum ingot.

From this conflict, however, has emerged a half-cent higher price of 22 1/2 cents a pound in the United States on the part of major U.S. producers. It compares with a range of 26 cents in 1962 to a low of 22 1/2 in late 1962.

At issue as the business day opened, however, was the world price.

Aluminum Ltd. started things Wednesday by announcing a one-cent increase to 24 cents a pound, effective Friday, in the world price. It raised its price in Canada by 1/2 cent. It said nothing about a rise in the United States market.

TURN TO ALCOA

Industry attention turned to Alcoa, biggest U.S. producer and the firm that had squelched — by refusing to go along — two recent attempts by competitors to raise the price a cent.

Alcoa announced it would raise its price by half a cent a pound in both markets to 23 1/2 cents, putting it below the Aluminum Ltd. figure in the world market but above it in the U.S.

Reynolds Metals Co., announced it was matching the Aluminum Ltd. one-cent raise in world markets but was matching Alcoa's half-cent rise in the U.S. market.

Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp. announced it would match Alcoa's half-cent rise in the U.S. and wait and see what happens before deciding on a world price.

Other U.S. producers were still holding at 23 cents at the close of business Wednesday.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Prices on the grain exchange in which flax was the most active commodity.

Early flax buying resulted from higher continental flax oil prices. But offerings were more liberal as the season progressed. A small sale to Norway was reported.

Rye showed rallying tendencies influenced by early returns in the Chicago market.

Oats and barley prices showed a firm undertone in mostly domestic trade.

Rapeseed continued to slide with more liberal hedging sales in appearance. Support from shippers was thin.

Export loadings of Canadian wheat: Japan 510,000, Bulgaria 400,000, Philippines 100,000 and Belgium 250,000.

ZEKE SHOOTS UP QUADRA ST. WITH LOADED SPRAY PAINTER

A paint-spraying prankster spray-bombed his way along Quadra Street, between Falmouth and Stoba, Tuesday evening attacking cars, windows, signs and telephone poles.

Licence plates on two cars were drenched with black paint, and the windows of the Bullfrog Service Station on Quadra Street were sprayed.

Saanich police may have a suspect.

Under the sprayed windows, the mad sprayer signed a name: ZEKE.

Topics of the Day

Larry Williams, injured in a car accident Saturday afternoon, is still fighting for his life.

Royal Jubilee Hospital says he has been in critical condition with head injuries ever since the accident.

Williams was a passenger in a car that slammed off the road at Maplewood and Camrose Crescent at about 2 p.m. Saturday.

Chimney heat from an inside heater set fire to the ridgepole of a greenhouse at 1531 Cedar Hill Cross Road about 11:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Saanich fire department extinguished the flaming ridgepole, and said damage was not extensive.

Victoria Motor Sports Club will hold an autocross, a form of timed field trial, Sunday at 11:30 p.m. at Butler Bros. gravel pit, Keating Cross Road.

An excavation worker had his left leg injured Wednesday afternoon when the scraper blade on a bulldozer fell on it.

John Price, 1660 North Dairy, is in good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital today.

Saanich police said the blade fell on him when he accidentally knocked the release lever.

Nu-Way Cleaners of Victoria have received a "Prestige Builders" award for the third consecutive year from the National Institute of Drycleaning.

Jim McEvay, sales manager of the local firm, received the award at the institute's annual convention in Chicago.

Ask The Times

Q. Please list the seven wonders of the world of ancient times in order of their importance, K.D.S.

A. They are: Great Pyramids of Gizeh in Egypt; Mausoleum at Halicarnassus; temple of goddess Diana at Ephesus; Nebuchadnezzar's hanging or terraced gardens of Babylon; bronze statue of Apollo, or Colossus of Rhodes; gold and ivory infold statue of Jupiter Olympus at Athens and The Pharos marble light-house at Alexandria.

Of these, only the great pyramid remains today.

Stanley Cup Finals In Full on TV

TORONTO (CP)—Final games of the Stanley Cup playoffs will be televised in full, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation announced today.

Either of the two best-of-seven semifinals goes to seven games, the seventh game will also be televised from the opening faceoff, the CBC said. Other semifinal games would be carried from 30 minutes after the start.

Bank Employees Nab Bandit In Street

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police were called to yet another downtown bank holdup today, but this time two bank employees nabbed them a suspect.

The man was taken into custody and $900 was recovered.

Race Track Closed Down By Mud

LINCOLN DOWNS, R.I. (AP)—Lincoln Downs announced cancellation today of its racing cards until Saturday because of mud.

The track, which also had to call off Wednesday's program, said a fast thaw earlier this week had made the track unusable.

Bauer Named to Fitness Council

OTTAWA (CP)—Rev. David Bauer, coach of Canada's 1964 Olympic hockey team, was among 15 men and women whose appointments to the national advisory council on fitness and amateur sports were announced today by Health Minister Judy LaMarsh.

SAIGON (AP)—Fire raged through a crowded slum area in the Mekong River delta city of Can Tho tonight, and possibly claiming 50 or more lives and leaving 3,000 persons homeless.

Officials said 50 to 100 residents of the fire-razed area missing when the conflagration finally was checked.

UP TO COMMUNITIES

Gov't Transfers
Mental CareBy FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

A new plan to shift mental health care from the B.C. government to community organizations was unveiled Wednesday by Health Minister Eric Martin.

Mental Costs Feared

Provincial government aid to hospital outpatient service must be increased for localized mental health treatment, city manager Dennis Young believes.

In a statement on legislation introduced Wednesday that would place more mental health services within communities, Mr. Young dispelled some apprehension that ratepayers would be charged more in order to provide the new services.

"There is no indication that local governments are being encouraged to take on more responsibility," Mr. Young said.

40-YEAR TREND

He noted that improved medical philosophy and treatment of mental health cases in the last 40 years has stressed less institutional type care.

The controversial Ross report on mental health in B.C., tabled after much delay in 1962, recommends community treatment facilities for most mental cases, Mr. Young observed.

It may be necessary to raise some of the funds for such expansion of facilities by public subscription, but the burden will not fall on the homeowner, he said.

The provincial government intends to co-operate with private organizations.

He introduced a brand new Mental Health Act in the legislature.

Its three main aims:

1. To provide for community health care with federal and provincial aid;
2. To overhaul all existing mental health laws, particularly admission procedures;
3. To set up interim safeguards for existing laws, such as admissions to Woodlands School for the retarded, until the new law is proclaimed.

MOST MODERN

The new legislation was described by Mr. Martin as the most modern in the world.

But it does not come into effect until proclaimed by the cabinet in whole or in part at some future date.

The key to the new community care plan, Mr. Martin said, is federal aid.

It will not be launched until the federal government includes mental care in hospital insurance. At that time, B.C. will also include it.

The plan is for community societies or organizations to build their own mental hospitals, clinics and units with federal and provincial aid.

In addition, the cabinet has the power to turn over any existing provincial institutions or facilities to public groups.

VICTORIA FIRST

A health official said if federal aid is forthcoming, as is hoped after the report of a royal commission on health services, the new Victoria mental hospital to be built beside Royal Jubilee may become B.C.'s first community-owned unit.

One of the stop-gap measures of the new act is an amendment to the existing Mental Defectives Act upholding present admission procedure for Woodlands.

RUBY QUOTED

'Intended
To Shoot
3 Times'

DALLAS (AP)—A police officer today quoted Jack Ruby as saying within minutes after he shot Lee Harvey Oswald that "I intended to shoot him three times."

Officer D. R. Archer testified at the 52-year-old Ruby's trial on a murder charge that the defendant approached Oswald—gun in hand—in the basement of Dallas police headquarters Nov. 24 last. Ruby, Archer said, was muttering unintelligible phrases but did call the accused presidential assassin a "son of a bitch."

Three to five minutes later, Archer continued, when he was inside the jail with Ruby, he told the defendant: "I think you killed him."

"He said," Archer added, "I intended to shoot him three times."

Ruby, on trial for his life, is pleading temporary insanity. The defence claims Ruby was in a mental blackout when he shot Oswald and didn't know what he was doing.

DID NOT HEAR HIM

Police Officer L. C. Graves, walking alongside Oswald when Ruby shot him, said he did not hear Ruby say he hoped Oswald died.

The other officer alongside Oswald, J. R. Leavelle, testified Wednesday that Ruby said he hoped Oswald would die.

"Did you hear Leavelle say to Oswald, 'I hope someone shoots you, you son of a bitch'?" asked Melvin Belli, chief defence counsel for Ruby.

Graves said he did not. "Did you hear him say someone shoots you, I hope they shoot as straight as you do," Belli asked.

Graves denied this too. Belli led Graves to the point concerning which finger Ruby

HOUSE

By Arthur Mayse

The omen-freighted Ides of March whooped down upon us Wednesday, a fact which the Legislative Assembly's unthreatened Caesar was quick to note.

"I am sure," said Premier Bennett in full smile, "that no difficulty will arise."

His prediction was mostly right. Although the winds blew fresh and free inside the House as well as out, the squalls were few and brief.

Perhaps because they were to dine later as guests of premier and cabinet, members were painstakingly cooperative. This spirit was carried to a startling extreme when David Barrett (NDP—Dewdney) asked leave to introduce a bill and got a unanimous 'Aye' before he could announce its title.

(A bill to amend the Training Schools Act: British Columbia's underdogs have no better friend than this sturdy, youngish opposition member who in private life works with the John Howard Society for the rehabilitation of ex-convicts.)

So on we went like a House afire for full 20 minutes, legislators playing brisk pitch-penny with ebullient militancy.

AS FURORE MOUNTS

Warning by Separatists
Sent in Wire to Queen

MONTREAL (CP)—Voices in Quebec continue to be raised in opposition to the Queen's scheduled visit to Quebec City in October.

Guy Pouliot, leader of the Separatist Rassemblement pour l'Indépendance Nationale, told English-speaking university students in Montreal Wednesday that "the Queen could very well be the victim of aggression when she comes here."

"This is not a threat or warning, but just my opinion as a private citizen," he said.

The Sir George Williams University students shouted at him to "speak English" and several of them threw down and trampled on a Quebec Fleur-de-Lys flag after the speech.

Later Wednesday, Le Rassemblement announced it had called Queen Elizabeth that incidents during her visit would be "unfortunate but inevitable."

The Queen is scheduled to visit Charlottetown and Quebec City next October to take part in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of confederation which led to Confederation in 1867.

The cable said the Queen's visit is being used by Ottawa "for political propaganda."

OPPOSE TRIP

"We are fighting this colonialist policy in which you are made to play a role unworthy of your rank. We beg you to believe that if we oppose your trip to Quebec, it is not that we are against your person but against a Confederation which has run its course."

"We regret in advance the unfortunate but inevitable incidents which could occur during your stay, but they are inevitable because we will never admit that the founding of a colonialist regime that we do not recognize is being celebrated in the heart of our country."

"In other times, when Quebec is independent, we will be pleased to reconsider the usefulness of such a visit to Quebec and to transmit to you, if the occasion arises, the homage of our people."

On Tuesday night, Montreal journalist Yvon Turcotte said on the CBC television show Viewpoint that Queen Elizabeth would not be welcome in Quebec.

The statement caused one member of Parliament to protest in the Commons Wednesday.

Nicholas Mandziuk (PC—Marquette) denounced the broadcast for the "outrageous and disloyal utterances" he said it had contained.

He demanded that the government take immediate steps to "prevent the further wanton expression" of such views over the CBC.

The furore over the Queen's visit was started by Laval University students. Then in Toronto Feb. 24 Marcel Chaput, leader of the defunct Quebec Republican Party, a separatist group, said some Quebecers are ready to let the Queen know

'UP TO OTTAWA'Palace

On Threats

LONDON (AP)—There seems no indication that Queen Elizabeth will cancel her scheduled visit next fall to Canada because of opposition of Quebec separatists.

Buckingham Palace declined any comment today on the latest statement by Le Rassemblement pour l'Indépendance Nationale in Montreal that the Queen's visit could create unfortunate incidents. The palace declined to discuss whether it had received a cable from the Quebec group.

The attitude, it is understood, taken by the palace is that the Queen is to be the guest of the Canadian government—she is the Queen of Canada, as well as Britain—and that if Canada feels she should not visit there the government will so inform her.

GYANI
Cyprus chief?India General
Seen As Chief Of UN Force

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Diplomats buckled down today to the task of putting together a new United Nations peace force, this time for the Mediterranean island country of Cyprus.

A 52-year-old Indian general appeared almost certain to command the peace force, but at least six men were being mentioned for the tougher job of political mediator between the Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots.

Diplomatic sources said Secretary-General U. Thant had chosen Lt. Gen. Prem Singh Gyani to command the force but was withholding an announcement until he receives replies from five countries, including Canada, he asked to contribute troops.

A UN spokesman said none of the five—Canada, Ireland, Sweden, Brazil and Finland—had given any immediate reply. Britain is to provide the main contingent. The United States would provide transportation and other logistical support.

The Security Council authorized the UN peacekeeping operation Wednesday, empowering Thant to name the force commander and the mediator in consultation with Cyprus, Turkey, Greece and Britain.

The 11-country Security Council passed unanimously the resolution authorizing the force, but Russia, Czechoslovakia and France abstained on a separate vote on a section calling on Thant to put it into action.

Sask. Beaten
In Brier Play

CHARLOTTETOWN — British Columbia stood alone at the top of the heap in the Canadian curling championships today.

Jack Polyblank's erratic Northern Ontario rink upended the Richardsons of Saskatchewan 8-6 in the eighth round of the Canadian Brier play and British Columbia's Lyall Dagg spurted ahead with a seventh straight victory.

"Fixed it up for you, eh?" Polyblank said with a grin to Dagg when their paths crossed at one end of the 2,000 seat Charlottetown forum after their matches.

Dagg pumped his hand. "He gave Manitoba's Bruce Hudson a 14-4 thrashing in his second match of today's triple-draw, the most strenuous day of the round-robin bonspiel."

'DIDN'T HAVE IT'

"What do you say after that?" said Dagg, a 34-year-old public relations executive from Vancouver. "They just didn't have it I guess," he said of Hudson's highly-regarded foursome, winners of five consecutive games in the third through seventh rounds.

Another draw is scheduled for tonight, but the all-important round comes up Friday morning. That's when the Richardson family rink, four-time Canadian and world champions, tangles with B.C.

A victory for Dagg would all but wrap up the coveted Brier Tankard for B.C. B.C. has won the national event only once — that in 1948 when Trail's Frenchie D'Amour triumphed at Calgary.

On tonight's draw, B.C. is pitted against hot-and-cold Quebec while Saskatchewan is to face lightly-regarded New Brunswick.

U.S. Will 'Open Up' Reactor

GENEVA (AP)—The United States announced today it will place one of its largest nuclear power reactors under international inspection in the hope that other countries — particularly the Soviet Union — will follow suit.

U.S. delegate Adrian S. Fisher told the 17-nation disarmament conference the reactor plant at Rowe, Mass., is to be placed under inspection of the International Atomic Energy Agency.

Fisher said the United States hopes this step will encourage the Soviet Union and other countries to join in a world-wide system to prevent the misuse of civil reactors for clandestine production of nuclear weapons.

Fisher stressed the IAEA will be invited to undertake the permanent inspection of the reactor, "whether or not other states reciprocate." But if they do reciprocate, he added, it would be "one of the most significant developments of this conference."

Fisher said three smaller American reactors, two at Brookhaven, N.Y., and one at Piqua, Ohio, are already under IAEA inspection to help the agency develop its procedure for safeguarding the peaceful uses of atomic energy.

The privately owned reactor at Rowe is the largest to come under IAEA surveillance. It is rated at a power level of 600,000 thermal kilowatts.

Winds Hit
110 MPH
In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—A brief but furious windstorm flew across part of Montreal Island today, doing heavy damage and causing some minor injuries.

The winds hit 110 miles an hour, the highest ever recorded here.

Power and telephone poles and trees were down, highways were blocked, roofs and street signs were blown away and airplanes at two airports damaged.

Summer cottages by the dozen were wrecked or damaged.

TORONTO (CP)—Winds gusting to 75 miles an hour sent a factory wall crashing down on five men today in suburban Weston. Two were reported seriously injured.

TORONTO (CP)—A sudden blizzard today dumped up to 11 inches of snow in northern Ontario, closing roads and schools and plunging temperatures below zero.

Cyprus Report
On Friday
By Pearson

OTTAWA (UPI) — Prime Minister Pearson said today he expects to make a full report to the Commons Friday on Canada's proposed role in the international peace-keeping force for Cyprus.

The prime minister said he read to cabinet this morning a report on talks between United Nations Secretary-General Thant and Canadian UN Ambassador Paul Tremblay.

Canadian defence officials said earlier everything is ready if Canada decides to contribute to the Cyprus force.

Defence Minister Hellyer met with the three chiefs of staff today. A spokesman said that so far no specific requests had been received by the department.

"We expect that an advance party could be in Cyprus within 24 hours of the order," he said, explaining that requirements for specialized troops and equipment would take somewhat longer.

"Until we know the composition of the Canadian contribution, we don't know how long it will take to have the full force in Mediterranean," he added.

STUDENTS
FASTING FOR FUNDS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Seven University of B.C. students today entered the fourth day of a publicity fast aimed at raising $1,100 to help build a school at Piliwke in the British African protectorate of Bechuanaland.

Bechuanaland is a small country between Southern Rhodesia and South Africa. The seven, led by Bruce Greye, a fourth-year arts student, said they are tired, irritable, physically weak but not hungry. They are eating only vitamin pills.

Another aim of the fast is to draw attention to the plight of starving millions in underdeveloped countries and to raise funds for the school building project sponsored by the student's council.

Their fast ends Saturday.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—It's Steve Lawrence's voice against the dramatic critics in the latest battle of B'way.

The critics usually win. But Steve has the disc jockeys, the song pluggers and record-promoters, most of the columnists, and an enormous personal following battling for him.

It's possible that "What Makes Sammy Run?" will do just that... RUN!

Take it from the B.W. and me, Steve Lawrence became a figure of importance on the B'way stage in this musical—built as playwright Budd Schulberg was saying after reading the script.

I doubt that serious writers will be interested in writing musicals after these reviews. I guess they want us to go back to musicals like "Hit the Deck," "Ella Kazan" was there and said this was the only musical he'd seen recently which interested him.

Steve and his wife, Eydie Gorme (who isn't in the show) couldn't help being stung by one review which didn't even mention Steve.

Those who loved the show gave great credit to Abe Burrows for play-doctoring; as one friend said, "He burrows from within."

The huge party at the N.Y. Hilton's Old Bourbon House for "What Makes Sammy Run?" cost the producers $5,000 to $7,000 for about 700 guests. Producer Joe Cates, invited about 300 but forgot that some three loaders bring 20 guests... Congressman John Lindsay says he's against President Johnson turning down the lights in the White House; "There's enough groping around there as it is."

Don Porter, star in the new B'way hit, "Any Wednesday," asked a Times-Sq. saloon-keeper why he fired his Indian bartender. "Hadda do it," replied the saloonist. "He started charging $24 for a Manhattan."

They walked along B'way, looking like a very fat mother and her 12-year-old son. Actually, they were 6-foot-3 Sharon Foust, a model originally from Altoona, Pa., and her fiancé, 4-foot-9 Barry Layne, from Boston.

and Providence, a drummer at Charlie Bates' Saloon at 487 1st Ave. Sharon, with her high heels, is about two feet taller than her sweetheart who, incidentally, has a semi-Beatle haircut besides.

"We both had complexes about our size—and that drew us together," said Sharon. They've been engaged since Thanksgiving.

"What do people say?" repeated the little drummer. "They say 'WOW! I don't believe it!'"

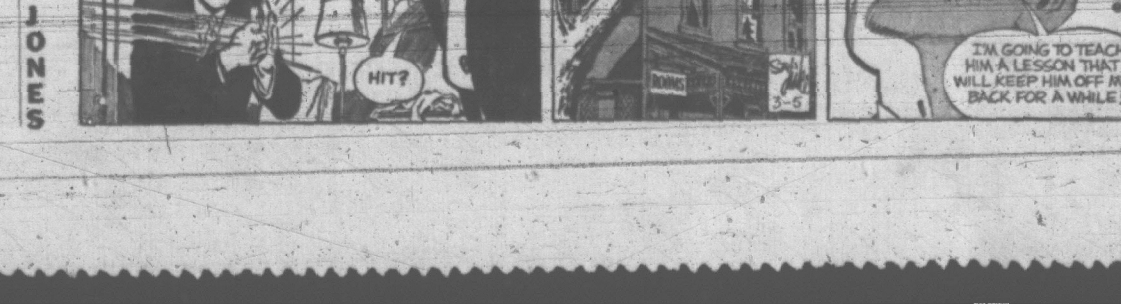

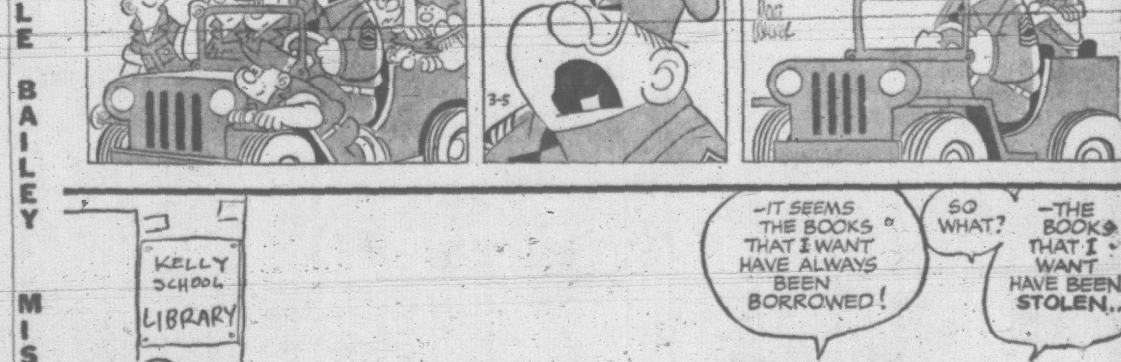

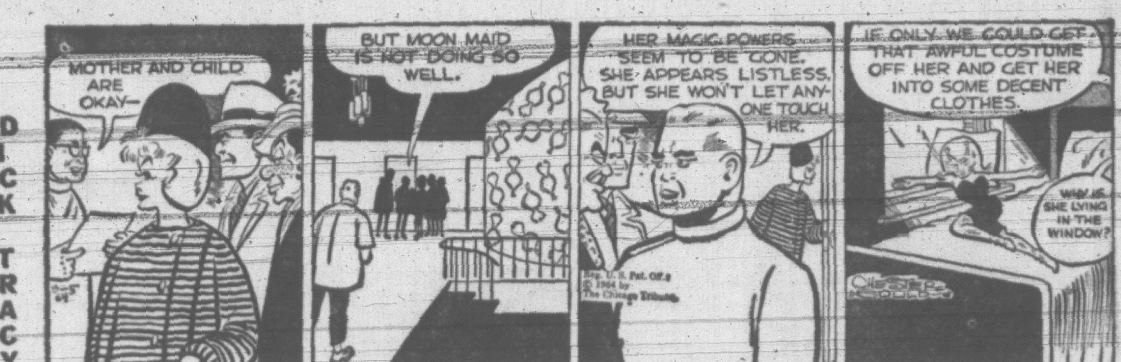

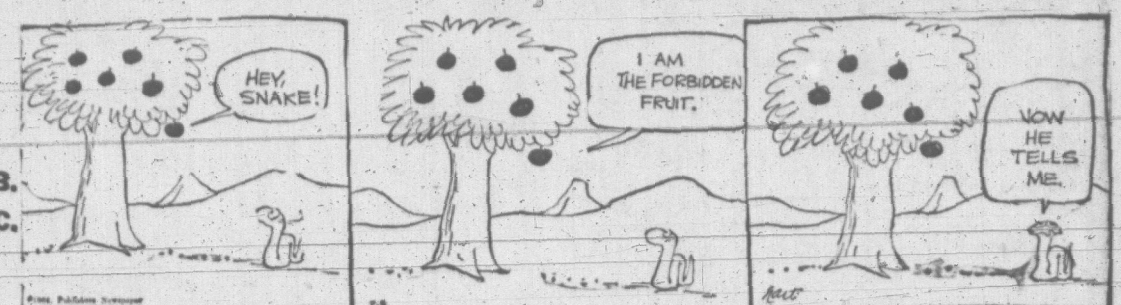

I said I wasn't sure I believed it, either. He weighs almost 90 pounds; she weighs about 150. "So naturally," Sharon said, "I carry his drums!"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL...

Van Johnson's back in Memorial Hospital, with an infection in the leg recently operated on... Pat O'Brien opens March 12 at Basin St. East, and shure he'll give $1,000 to charity if he's wrong...

Producer Ray Stark, denying his "Funny Girl" star Barbra Streisand is expecting, says he'll give $1,000 to charity if he's wrong...

WIRE BRIEFS

This roll call of the provinces made scant impression on our legislature. The general feeling was that church should remain separate from state, a belief in which Tony Gargrave (NDP, Mackenzie) concurred.

"I speak as an individual," said Mr. Gargrave, and speaking as an individual, proceeded to support the government stand against preacher-school teachers.

Minor division of this sort within a party isn't uncommon. Our five Liberals, for instance, are not of one mind about the government proposal to expand industry's toehold in our Class A, or wilderness parks.
